The College.

THE College of the City of New York, originally entitled the Free Academy, was established in 1848 by the Board of Education of the City of New York, in pursuance of an Act of the Legislature of the State passed May 7, 1847, and ratified by a vote of the people of the city June 9, 1847. The first class entered January, 1849, and completed its course in July, 1853. In the year 1854 the Legislature passed a law endowing the institution with collegiate powers and privileges, so far as pertained to the conferring upon its graduates the usual collegiate degrees and diplomas in the Arts and Sciences. In the year 1866, on the recommendation of the Board of Education, the Legislature of the State changed the name to that of "The College of the City of New York," and conferred on the institution the powers and privileges of a college, pursuant to the Revised Statutes of the State, rendering it subject to the provisions of the said statutes relative to colleges and to visitation of the Regents of the University, in like manner with other colleges of the State, and making the members of the Board of Education, ex-officio, the Trustees of the College. In 1872 the President of the College was by Act of Legislature made a member of the Board of Trustees. In the year 1882 the Legislature repealed so much of the statutes relating to the College as had made one year's attendance at the public schools of the city a requisite for admission, thus opening the College to all young men of the city of proper age and sufficient preparation.

In May, 1900, by amendment of the foregoing provisions, the Legislature created a separate Board of Trustees, composed of nine members to be appointed by the Mayor, charged with the sole care and control of the College. Of this Board, the President of the College and the President of the Board of Education of the City of New York are, ex-officio, additional members. The appointive members serve for nine years each.

Instruction in the College is free; so is the use of textbooks and apparatus. The buildings are located at the corner of Twenty-third Street and Lexington Avenue.

TERMS AND VACATIONS.

The College year begins on the Thursday following the second Monday of September and closes on the fortieth Thursday thereafter. It is divided into two terms. The first term closes on the second Friday of January, followed by an examination; the second term begins on the fourth Monday of January.

There are three vacations—the Summer vacation, from the day after Commencement to the Thursday after the second Monday in September; the Winter vacation, from the 25th day of December to the 2d day of January, inclusive, and the Spring vacation, the week following Good Friday. There are no College exercises on legal holidays or on any Friday immediately following a legal holiday.

REQUISITES FOR ADMISSION.

The regular examination of applicants for admission takes place in June, and is conducted in writing. Applicants for the first year preparatory class must prove themselves proficient in Spelling, English Grammar, Arithmetic, Geography, History of the United States and in the Elements of Industrial Drawing. Those who pass the examinations are admitted on probation for eight weeks, at the expiration of which their names are entered on the rolls of the College, provided that in the interval they have maintained the required standing.

Applicants may also be admitted to the first year preparatory class on the certificate of the principal of a school having a graded course of seven years that the applicant has received 75 per cent. of the maximum of his studies during his last year. Candidates from the High Schools are admitted to the corresponding classes in the College on the certificate of the principals.

Candidates for admission to any class other than the first year preparatory class shall be examined at the same time as candidates for admission to that class or at such other times as may be ordered by the Board of Trustees. Any candidate shall be admitted to any class upon presenting satisfactory papers of dismissal from the college previously attended by him and passing an examination the same or equal to that which shall have been required from students of the College for promotion to the class to which admission is sought. No candidate can be admitted later than the beginning of the Senior year.

COURSES OF STUDY.

There are five Courses of Study continuous throughout the three Academic or preparatory years and the four Collegiate years. These courses are:

- I. Language Course, Classical.
- II. Language Course, Latin and French.
- III. Language Course, Modern.
- IV. Scientific Course.
- V. Scientific Course, Mechanical.

Every student shall, upon entering the College, elect what course he will follow, subject to such approval by the father of the student, or otherwise, as the President of the College shall direct. Students may thereafter be transferred from one course to another in such manner and upon such conditions as may be prescribed by the Faculty.

As the courses are all intended to promote a sound general culture, each department is represented in each course either by prescribed or elective work. On the other hand, the courses are so arranged as to measurably gratify the student's inclination to follow selected lines of study. While emphasis is laid in each course upon a given group of studies, the student is afforded an opportunity to pursue branches lying outside of that group. Thus, in the Classical Course, where special prominence is given to Latin and Greek, the student must undertake one modern language and may study two. In the Scientific Courses he must pursue certain liberal studies as well. In the Junior and Senior years optional branches are open to him as specified in the curriculum.

The Mechanical Course differs from the Scientific Course proper in that it makes the applications of mechanical science prominent and requires practice in the workshop and mechanical laboratories.

While in the main the student has an average of twenty hours a week of college work, the total sometimes rises to twenty-one or twenty-two owing to laboratory work or hours assigned to sight reading in the ancient and modern languages. Students in the Language Courses may devote some time in the afternoon to the workshop, provided such additional time does not interfere with their regular work or the regulations of the Faculty.

There are exercises in Oratory and Declamation every morning in the Assembly Halls by students of the Senior, Junior, and Sophomore classes.

The details of the curriculum and the work pursued in each department are given in the pages immediately following.

LARGE SOLID TYPE represent hours in elective subjects for which Latin and French to the Scientific Course or the Scientific Departments of Study.

ENGLISH LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

In the preparatory years, the work of the English department is the same in all five courses.

During the first year four hours a week are devoted to the subject. The students receive a thorough training in English grammar and in the structure of the English sentence. They study critically about four hundred pages of prose and verse by American authors, and write short fortnightly themes. The text-books used are Kittredge and Arnold's The Mother Tongue, Part II, Carpenter's Elements of Rhetoric, First High School Course and Masterpieces of American Literature.

In the second year, two hours a week, the rhetorical study includes vocabulary, qualities of style, the paragraph and the development of the whole composition. In literature about four hundred pages of prose and verse by British authors are critically analyzed. Short fortnightly themes and four longer essays are written, and each student has personal conferences with his instructor in relation to his compositions. Carpenter's Elements, First High School Course and Masterpieces of British Literature are the books used.

In the third year, two hours a week, themes, essays and conferences are required as in the previous year, and in addition six hundred pages of home-reading. Macaulay's Warren Hastings, Burke's Speech on Conciliation and Shakespeare's Julius Cæsar and Macbeth are critically studied.

For the College classes the work of the department is the same in all five courses except in the Junior year.

Freshman Class—Two hours a week. The history of English literature is studied, chiefly in connection with the development of the poetry. Moreover, the students are required to read critically all the pieces in Pancoast's volume, and to comprehend fully all the allusions. Essays are written, and discussed in personal conferences with the instructors. Stopford Brooke's English Literature, Pancoast's Standard English Poems, Gayley's Classic Myths in English Literature, are the text-books.

Sophomore Class—Two hours a week. The historical development of English prose will be considered ; then the style of the best modern writers will be analyzed ; and finally attention will be given to argumentative composition and the construction of briefs. Essays, briefs and orations are to be written, and discussed in personal conferences with the instructors. The books for the year are Genung's Rhetoric and Handbook of Rhetorical Analysis, Baker's Principles of Argumentation and a volume of English prose selections.

Junior Class, Courses I, II, III, IV—Two hours a week. Wendell's William Shakespeare, Shakespeare's Midsummer Night's Dream, Henry V, As You Like It, Hamlet, King Lear, The Tempest. These plays are studied chiefly from the standpoint of dramatic construction, character portrayal and poetic beauty. The linguistic element, while not overlooked, is subordinated to the artistic. In connection with the dramas, Shakespeare's life and times are also considered. Essays are written and personal conferences on composition are held. Course V—One hour a week. Similar work is done, but only half the amount.

Senior Class—Two hours a week, elective, open to students of all courses. The Works of Tennyson (Globe edition). Most of Tennyson's poems will be critically considered, but special emphasis will be laid upon The Idylls of the King. Students will be expected to read in the works of other authors of the nineteenth century and to write essays and reports.

Every Senior and Junior must write an original oration. Those pieces which are found to be sufficiently meritorious are rehearsed with the Instructor in Elocution and spoken in the college chapel before the students and the Faculty. Every Sophomore must rehearse with the Instructor of Elocution and deliver before the students one selected declamation.

LATIN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

The Latin Course in the preparatory classes is substantially the same as that of the Classical Course in the New York High Schools. Alongside of Leighton's Latin Lessons, Allen and Greenough's Latin Grammar is studied, and this Grammar is retained throughout the entire course. In this manner the student gradually becomes thoroughly familiar with his text-book. The second year is devoted to the study of Cæsar's Gallic War, of which four or five books are taken. Weekly Latin Prose Exercises, based on the student's work in Cæsar, strengthen his knowledge of Latin grammar as they deepen his understanding of the author's text. It may be stated here, once for all, that exercises in Latin Prose Composition run parallel with the study of the Latin authors throughout the entire Latin Course in the preparatory as well as in the Collegiate classes. Cicero is the chief author read in the third year preparatory. Some five or six of his orations are carefully gone through, attention being paid not only to the syntax, but also to the historical and other features suggested by the text. The hours allotted to sight reading are given to the study of Sallust's Bellum Catilinæ, as an aid to the understanding of Cicero's orations against Catiline.

In the Freshman class Vergil's Aeneid (four or five books) is the work assigned. Sight reading is continued, Post's Latin at Sight being the text-book. In the Sophomore year, first term, Livy (two books) is the author regularly studied. For sight reading, Cicero's treatises, De Amicitia and De Senectute, have been selected.

The Odes and Epodes of Horace form the subject of prepared study during the second term of the Sophomore year, while the Tenth Book of Quintilian's Institutiones is read at sight. The study of Horace is continued in the Junior year: the first term being devoted to his Satires and Epistles. A selection from Cicero's Letters is read at sight. In the second term the Juniors study the Annals of Tacitus and read a play of Terence at sight. The obligatory Latin in the Senior year consists of a play of Plautus in the first term and of selections from the Latin Poets (Crowell's) in the second. The Elective Course comprises Cicero's De Natura Deorum, which is intended to combine with their philosophical reading and Juvenal's Satires.

The course thus outlined acquaints the student with Latin literature from its beginnings in Plautus through the classical age to the silver Latin of Tacitus and Juvenal. Thus he studies the greatest writers in prose and poetry, the course embracing selections from the Latin historians, orators, philosophers and letter-writers, as well as from the dramatic, lyric, elegiac, satiric and epic poets. It is expected that at the end of his course the student will read fluently Latin prose and the less difficult Latin poets. As far as Latin is concerned, he will have the classical culture expected in a physician or lawyer, and be prepared for such courses in linguistic, philosophical, political and historical science leading to the degree of Ph.D. as require a previous knowledge of Latin.

As the same methods of instruction are followed from the lowest preparatory year to the Senior class, the student will lose no time in accommodating himself to new and divergent modes of teaching. Thoroughness is aimed at above all; quantity is subordinate to quality. In translating, not only a correct and idiomatic, but, as far as possible, an elegant English version is demanded; it is the aim of the department in every way to aid the student in acquiring a complete control of the vernacular.

The Latin-French Course, as far as its Latin studies are concerned, is practically identical with the Classical Course.

There are very short and elementary elective Latin Courses in the Junior and Senior classes of the Modern Languages, the Scientific and the Mechanical Courses. The studies pursued are Leighton's Lessons and Latin Grammar in the Junior class, and Latin Grammar, two books of Caesar's Gallic War, an oration of Cicero, and a Book of Vergil's Aeneid in the Senior class.

GREEK LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

The course of study of the Greek Language and Literature has been radically changed since the publication of the last annual Register.

At that time the study was begun with the alphabet in the Freshman class, and continued with three periods per week to the end of the Senior year.

The course now begins with the second year of the seven-year course and continues until the end of the College Course. A new feature, sight reading, independent of work requiring preparation, has been introduced, beginning with the Freshman class, continuing through the remaining years, and in the Senior class taking the entire time of the student for the time prescribed in the Classical Course for the study of Greek. This exercise is conducted by reading texts not used for home study, and the student is required in the classroom to work out in the presence of the class the construction and translation of these texts. The brief experience already had seems to show that beneficial results may be expected from the continued use of the method.

The following syllabus will apply in future years only to the class that begins the study, as after this year all the other classes will gradually approach their normal state of knowledge and their studies become proportionally more advanced.

The study of Greek begins in the second year of the preparatory course. Five hours weekly are given to the subject. The students pursue the simultaneous study of the orthography, etymology and syntax, and their exemplification in easy Attic prose. The student is taught to read, translate and analyze constructions and to translate English into Attic Greek. The Greek selections are mainly taken from Xenophon.

This year the third-year class also begins Greek, with four hours per week. Owing to their greater age, it has been found that they accomplish as much work as the third-year students do with the longer time given them. Both these classes study the same text-book, which is prepared to engage the attention of a class for one year. Next year the third-year class, which is the present second-year class, will have had one year's preparation and will do the work of the present Freshman class.

The present Freshman class has had one year of preparation in Greek. Three hours weekly are now given to work requiring home study, and two hours weekly to sight reading. During this year the class in work requiring preparation reads Xenophon's Anabasis and has one exercise weekly in Greek prose composition. In sight reading the two hours weekly are given to Xenophon's Hellenica, text only being used without notes. In the Anabasis attention is constantly directed to historical and geographical allusions. The difference between Greek and English idioms is explained. In sight reading the student is stimulated and encouraged to apply his acquired knowledge as the basis of independent effort.

The Sophomore class this year has had only the same amount of preparation as the Freshman,—one year,—and begins the year with the same tasks. Two hours are given to work requiring preparation and two hours to sight reading. In the first term Xenophon's Anabasis is read, but in the second term the Memorabilia, in which the author uses a very different vocabulary and more difficult constructions, suitable to the changed subject and ideas. In sight reading the Hellenica is read both terms. One exercise weekly in Greek prose composition is here required. In the first term history and geography are dwelt upon, while in the second term attention is given to the doctrines and method of Socrates as described by Xenophon.

The present Junior class reads and the succeeding one will read passages from Demosthenes in the first term and Homer's Iliad the second term for prepared work two hours weekly. After these two years our Junior classes will have had more time for preparation, and these studies will be transferred to the Sophomore year. In sight reading, this year the class has read selections from Herodotus.

In the first term, the period of Demosthenes and the events leading up to his great oration are explained. In the second term, the meter of Homer is explained; the different dialects he employs are illustrated, and the story, with its religion, etc., dwelt upon. Modern archæological research and its discoveries are presented to the student. One exercise weekly has been required in Greek prose composition. In this and the Senior class instruction is constantly given in the manners, customs, philosophy and religion of the ancient Greeks.

In the Senior class, according to the new curriculum in the Classical Course, the only prescribed work is in sight reading, to which two hours weekly are given. This year in the prescribed course a Greek comedy, Aristophanes' Plutus, is read, and portions of Æschines' oration against Ctesiphon. In future, when the Senior class has had greater preparation, other works will be read. This year a class in the Senior year has elected the study of Greek for three hours per week. These students read in the first term selections from Thucydides, and in the second term a Greek tragedy, Æschylus' Prometheus, and a comedy of Aristophanes, the Acharnians. Numerous talks have been had on the drama, the meter, the archæology, and religious and philosophical ideas involved in reading the authors.

In the succeeding years, as the new curriculum goes more completely into effect, there will be a shifting and adjustment of parts of the present course, and an introduction of new authors into it.

FRENCH LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

The study of French is pursued in the three preparatory years in all the courses, the number of hours varying. In Course I there is a choice between French and German.

First year, Course I and II, two hours per week. The student begins with the Complete French Course, sixty numbers of Chardenal; also, Verbes Français, C. F. In Courses III, IV, and V, five hours per week, the students take forty numbers more of Chardenal and fifty pages of Thiers' Expedition de Bonaparte.

Second Year, Course I, two hours per week. The first year's work is reviewed and forty new numbers of Chardenal taken up. In Course II, five hours per week, a similar review is followed with further work in Chardenal and the study of Expedition de Bonaparte. In Courses III, IV, and V, four hours per week, additional numbers of Chardenal and fifty pages Contes, A. Daudet.

Third Year, Course I, two hours per week. Reviews, Chardenal, Thiers. Course II, four hours per week, Sarcey, Siège de Paris, and Daudet. Courses III, IV, and V, five hours per week, two of which are devoted to sight reading in Le Sage, Gil Blas. The other three hours, prescribed work, are devoted to the reading of Siège de Paris. Weekly written exercises are required of the students in each of the preparatory years.

In the College years the study of French is continued in longer and shorter courses.

Freshman class, Course I, two hours per week. Daudet and Sarcey. Course II, five hours per week, three of them for prescribed work in Demogeot's Grands Ecrivains, eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, and two in sight reading, Le Sage. Courses IV and V, one hour per week, Demogeot.

Sophomore Class, Course I, three hours per week. Students now in their fifth year of French continue in Demogeot's Grands Ecrivains. Those who begin the study have Chardenal and Verbes Français. Courses II and III, four hours per week, two prescribed and two for sight reading, Demogeot and Sandeau. Courses IV and V, substantially the same as Course I.

Junior Class, Course I, three hours per week. Sixth-year students go on with Demogeot in Grands Ecrivains, and the second-year students with Daudet and Thiers. Course II, three hours, one prescribed, in which Corneille's Le Cid, five acts, is read. For sight reading the authors used are Lamartine, Scenes de la Révolution and Labiche et Martins' Le Voyage de M. Perrichon. Course III, one hour's sight reading in Lamartine. Courses IV and V, three hours per week. Students in their sixth year of French take up Corneille, Le Cid; Racine, Andromaque; Balzac, Eugénie Grandet. Second-year students the same as in Course I.

Senior Class, Course I, three hours per week. Students in their seventh year of French take up Le Cid, Andromaque, and Eugénie Grandet. Students this year read Sandeau, Mademoiselle de la Sieglière, five acts, and Daudet, Le Petit Chose. Courses II and III, two hours per week sight reading in Dumas, La Question d'Argent, and Voltaire, selected letters; also three hours per week prescribed work with such authors as V. Hugo, Hernani; Molière, Le Tartuffe; Racine, Athalie. Courses IV and V, two hours prescribed work for students in their seventh year. Hugo and Molière. Students in their third year read in Grands Ecrivains, Vol. II.

GERMAN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

In the preparatory classes, two lessons a week are assigned to German for the first year. They are devoted to the acquisition of the elements—vocabulary, phraseology and grammar; the text-book is the American edition of Eysenbach, of which the first half is studied. In the second year, there are two lessons a week in Courses I and II, five lessons in Courses III, IV and V. In the former, the grammar is completed and portions of a reader (Joyne's) are read; in the latter, additional exercises (Harris's Composition) are done, the reader is completed, poems are memorized. In the third year, two lessons a week, of Course I, it is intended to accomplish the five hour second-year work just described; while in the third year of Courses III, IV, V, in which four hours a week are assigned, composition will be continued, more attention given to conversation, more difficult texts read.

In all courses the Freshman class beginning German acquires the knowledge of a vocabulary of moderate extent, of the elements of the grammar, of familiar phraseology and has practice in reading and translation. In the Sophomore year prose and poetry of medium difficulty are read; short poems are memorized, and prose passages are so learned that the students reproduce the German when the teacher gives the translation.

To the Junior class more difficult prose is offered—a reader for the upper grades of a German gymnasium being used—and the classic poets are presented. Memorizing, conversation, composition, are continued. In the Senior year Benedix's Steckbrief is read and some scenes are memorized. Fischer's Germany and the Germans is taken up. Wallenstein is used with the sections having two hours a week of sight reading.

It may be added that sight reading is prescribed in all the College classes of Course III and in one year of Courses IV and V. The Freshmen, Sophomores and Juniors, according to course and degree of advancement, read Seidel's Lebrecht Huehnchen, stories from Hauff's Karawane and extracts from Freytag's Soll und Haben. Students in their fifth year of German receive systematic instruction in the History of German Literature.

SPANISH LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

In the preparatory department the study of Spanish begins in the second year, Courses II and III, two hours per week. The rudiments of the language—grammar, reading, dictation and composition—are taken up and special importance attached to the acquisition of a correct pronunciation. Loiseaux's Spanish Grammar is the text-book. The third year is devoted to a review of the rudiments and continuation of the reading.

In the Collegiate department Spanish is pursued in all the courses either as a prescribed or elective study. In Courses II and III, continuing from the preparatory years, it remains as prescribed work through the Freshman, Sophomore and Junior classes. The Freshmen recite two hours a week. Explanations and conversation will be conducted as much as possible in the Spanish tongue, Loiseaux's Grammar and Reader being the guides. The Sophomores, three hours a week, continue along the same lines with more advanced text-books, including old Spanish comedies, Moratin, etc.

In Courses I, IV and V the study is elective, beginning in Sophomore year and continued through Junior and Senior years. The work is the same as for beginners in the preparatory courses, but the students are able to advance more rapidly.

Junior year, Courses II and III, three hours per week, will be devoted to the study of Spanish literature, Don Quijote and others. In Courses I, IV and V, three hours per week, the instruction is the same as that given to the Sophomore class, Courses II and III.

In Senior year, three hours are assigned to the work, and in Courses IV and V, two hours per week. The studies are the same as those taken up in Junior year, Courses II and III. Courses II, III and IV, three hours per week, are elective.

It should be stated that during the College year 1902-

1903 the classes will not be as far advanced as the curriculum contemplates, but the instruction will be fitted in each case to their state of preparation.

HISTORY.

The study of history extends through the three preparatory classes in all the courses, two hours per week. In the first and second years, with Myer's General History for the leading text-book, the students go through the Greek and Roman and the main portions of the mediæval and modern periods. The use of maps, written exercises and side-reading, as far as possible, are required. In the third year English history, Coman and Kendall's, and some special topics are studied more in detail. The instructors add largely, by reference to sources and through lectures, to the matter in the text-book.

The Sophomore class continues the study, two hours a week, enlarging on the modern period and taking a brief course in civics. This is required in all five courses. In Junior year the systematic study of American history is taken up and continued into Senior year, the aim of the course being not only to extend the student's knowledge in this field, but also to lead him into critical and comprehensive methods of studying the history of his own country. Three hours are assigned to the Senior class for this work, and the course is optional. The instruction is given both through text-books and lectures, and the members of the class write essays on given topics. They are also called upon to discuss the subjects in the classroom, where they become familiar with the principal standard and, to some extent, the original authorities, on American history.

In general, the course for these two years includes a study of our constitutional beginnings in the colonial period, involving the relation of American history to English; the period of the Revolution, with the origin of the Union; and a survey of American politics down through the Reconstruction period. This study of constitutional and political history is followed by a course in American constitutional law, including comparisons with the constitutions of other nations. The books used in the classroom in connection with the lectures are Hart's Formation of the Union, Burgess's The Middle Period and some author on constitutional law. Authorities, works of reference and other aids are at the disposal of the students.

A cabinet in connection with the department contains a collection of electrotypes of nearly four hundred of the finest ancient coins in the British Museum, the obverse and the reverse of each coin being shown. The arrangement exhibits, chronologically and geographically, the history of coinage from 700 b. c. to the Christian Era. An additional section, one of a small number yet seen in the United States, exhibits the most famous medallions struck from A. D. 1 to 217. The whole collection is the gift of the Class of '75.

PHILOSOPHY.

The studies in this department are commenced in the Sophomore year. Logic, deductive and inductive, is then studied as a preparatory discipline. The first term of the Junior year is devoted to the study of the theory of the state and international law; during the second term economic science is taken up, and special attention is given to questions of international trade, money and banking.

In the Senior year psychology is studied during the first term. The treatment is descriptive, physiological and experimental. The subjects of the second term are history of philosophy and ethics. Philosophical doctrines and systems of historic importance are examined, their evolution is traced and their implications are developed.

A three years' course in pedagogy is offered to students intending to teach. This course begins in the Sophomore year with the study of logic; the Junior year is devoted to psychology, and the Senior-year work is in the history of education and the principles and practice of teaching.

MATHEMATICS.

The students of the first year preparatory, in all the five courses, have five recitations per week in Mathematics and pursue the same studies. They complete three books of Legendre's Geometry and Beman and Smith's, or Wentworth's, Algebra, through Simultaneous Equations of the First Degree.

Students of the second year, in Courses I, II and III, have three recitations per week in Mathematics and study Legendre's Geometry, Books IV and V, and Beman and Smith's Algebra, through Simple Equations. Students in Courses IV and V have five recitations per week. They study Books IV and V of Legendre, and Fischer and Schwatt's Algebra through Evolution.

In the third year students of Courses I, II and III have three recitations per week. They study Wentworth's Algebra from Simultaneous Equations of the First Degree, through Radicals, and finish Legendre's Geometry, beginning with Book VI. Students in Courses IV and V have five hours per week. They will study Hall and Knight's Algebra as far as Series, and will complete Wentworth's Solid Geometry.

In the Collegiate years the Freshman class, in Courses I, II and III, has three recitations per week. These students finish during the year Legendre's Geometry, Plane and Solid. Students in Courses IV and V have four recitations per week. They finish Wentworth's Geometry, Plane and Solid, complete Loomis's Algebra and Wheeler's Plane Trigonometry as far as Right Triangles.

The Sophomore class, in Courses I, II and III, has two recitations per week. These students take up Wheeler's Spherical Trigonometry, and Peck's Analytical Geometry—an abridged course. Students in Courses IV and V have five recitations per week. They complete Wheeler's Spherical Trigonometry, receive a brief course of oral instruction in Surveying and complete Wentworth's Analytical Geometry.

Students of the Junior class, in Courses I, II and III, have two hours per week as an elective study. They complete Peck's Analytical Geometry, and have a brief course in Calculus. Students in Course III have three hours per week as an elective, and those in Course V the same time as a prescribed study. They will study Osborne's Differential and Integral Calculus and Wells' University Algebra.

In the Senior class, in all the courses, Mathematics is an elective study, with two recitations per week. Students in Courses I, II and III who have heretofore had no Calculus, will pursue a brief course in that subject, using Peck's Treatise. Students who have had instruction in Calculus, including all those in Course V, will study Higher Algebra and Differential Equations.

CHEMISTRY.

The curriculum in force provides several courses in Chemistry. Students of Course IV receive instruction during four years. Those of the Language Courses have one year of prescribed and a year of elective work. Students of Course V have two years of prescribed and a year of elective study.

The time allotted is divided between lectures and laboratory, recitations being conducted during some of these hours. The lecture room accommodates nearly 200. The apparatus and collections of charts and specimens are well adapted to fully illustrate the topics presented. Numerous experiments are offered in demonstration of the important chemical laws and their applications. All the lectures are fully illustrated with experiments, charts and drawings on the slates.

The laboratories are commodious, but taxed to their fullest capacity by the present arrangement of classes. The desks enable the students to perform the various operations of experimental and analytical chemistry. A reference library is at hand for the instructing staff and the students.

The elective courses are preparatory to the special courses of technical and university schools.

Freshman year. Course IV. Scientific. Three hours weekly: one hour lecture and two hours laboratory. Elementary general chemistry. Experimental work in the laboratory, with outlines of qualitative analysis. Clowes' Analytical Chemistry as text-book.

Sophomore year. Course IV. Scientific. Three hours weekly: one hour lecture and two hours laboratory. General chemistry, advanced course. Continuation of qualitative analysis and introduction to quantitative analysis. Newth's Inorganic Chemistry and Clowes' Analytical Chemistry are used this year as text-books.

Course V. Mechanical. Two hours weekly. General Chemistry. Lectures only. Newth's General Chemistry as a text-book.

Junior year. Courses I, II and III. Language Courses. Three hours weekly: one hour lecture and two hours laboratory. This course is prescribed and intended as a cultural course. The topics presented are therefore selected to that end. The laboratory work corresponds to the same idea. Temporarily Newth's General Chemistry and Clowes' Analytical Chemistry are in use as text-books. This course leads to an elective in the Senior year.

Course IV. Scientific. Fours hour weekly: two hours lecture and two hours laboratory. Quantitative analysis, gravimetric and volumetric. The lectures continue inorganic chemistry and begin organic. Bloxam's Inorganic and Organic Chemistry, and Curtman's Qualitative and Volumetric Analysis as text-books.

Course V. Mechanical. Two hours weekly, both laboratory, with recitations. This course is directed to topics essential to students taking a mechanical course, and discusses the chemistry of the metals particularly. Bloxam and Curtman as text-books.

Senior year. Courses I, II and III. Language Courses. Elective, three hours weekly: one hour lecture and two hours laboratory. This course follows the prescribed course of the Junior year and is especially intended for students requiring certificates for medical and technical schools and the Regents' examinations. It is on General Chemistry, with as much quantitative analytical work as can be introduced in such short hours. Bloxam's Inorganic and Organic Chemistry has been used as a text-book. Curtman's Qualitative and Volumetric Analysis has been used in laboratory work.

Course IV. Scientific. Five hours weekly: one hour lecture and four hours laboratory. Completion of the four-years' course. Chiefly organic chemistry with applied chemistry. Bloxam's Inorganic and Organic Chemistry has been the text-book.

Course V. Mechanical. Three hours weekly. Elective. Special topics in chemistry as applied to mechanic arts. One hour lecture and two hours laboratory. Bloxam's Inorganic and Organic Chemistry as text-book, with special treatises on laboratory work.

PHYSICS.

A. Prescribed Work.

Freshman class, Courses I, II and III. Elements of Physics, two hours a week, recitations, with occasional illustrated lectures. Text-book, Cooley's The Student's Manual, entire.

Courses IV and V, the same, and one hour a week of laboratory work on the subjects studied.

Course V, Work-shop study and practice, Wood-working tools and methods, four hours a week. Text-book, Compton's First Lessons in Wood-Working.

Sophomore class, all courses. Advanced and Mathematical Physics, text-book and occasional lectures, two hours a week, and laboratory work one hour.

Course V, Work-shop study and practice, forge and vise work, tools and methods, four hours a week. Text-book, Compton's First Lessons in Metal-Working. The Speed-lathe commenced. Text-book, Compton and De Groot, The Speed-Lathe.

Junior class, Courses IV and V. Elementary Analytical Mechanics, text-book and lectures, two hours a week.

Course V, Work-shop study and practice. The Speed-Lathe continued, elements of Pattern-making, the Engine Lathe and Planer, four hours a week.

Senior class, Course V. Analytical Mechanics, advanced, Bartlett and lectures, two hours a week, Spherical and Practical Astronomy, with practical exercises, three hours a week. Text-books, Bartlett's Spherical Astronomy and Young's Elements of Astronomy. The Theory of Prime Movers, recitations and lectures, three hours a week. Text-book, Rankine's Prime Movers. Mechanical Laboratory various physical measurements, testing of machines, etc., four hours a week.

B. Elective Work.

Junior class, Courses I, II and III, Elements of Analytical Mechanics, as prescribed for Courses IV and V in the same year, recitations and lectures two hours a week, or Astronomy, Young's Elements, with practical exercises, two hours a week.

Senior class, Courses I, II, III and IV, Advanced Physics, Heat and Electricity, recitations and laboratory, three hours a week. Courses I, II, III, Astronomy, Young's Elements, with practical exercises, two hours a week. Course IV, Astronomy, as above, three hours a week.

NATURAL HISTORY.

The arrangement of the studies in this department is as follows:

PREScribed COURSES.

SENIOR SCIENTIFIC— $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Mineralogy,} \\ \text{Geology,} \\ \text{Palaeontology} \end{array} \right\}$ Text-book (Scott) and lectures.
Four hours a week. Prof. STRATFORD.

JUNIOR SCIENTIFIC— Biology. $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Text-book (Parker-Haswell)} \\ \text{and lectures.} \end{array} \right\}$
Four hours a week. Prof. STRATFORD.

JUNIOR MECHANICAL— Biology.

Two hours a week. Prof. STRATFORD.

SOPHOMORE COURSES I, II, III. $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Comparative Zoölogy.} \end{array} \right\}$ Text-book (Parker-Haswell) and lectures.
Two hours a week. Ass't Prof. SICKELS.

SOPHOMORE COURSE IV. $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Comparative Zoölogy.} \end{array} \right\}$ Text-book (Parker-Haswell) and lectures.

Three hours a week. Instr. SUMNER.

FRESHMAN COURSES I, II, III, IV and V. $\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Anatomy, Physiology} \\ \text{and Hygiene.} \end{array} \right\}$ Lectures.
Two hours a week. Instr. BRYAN.

ELECTIVE COURSES.

In addition to the foregoing, electives in Biology and Geology are offered to the Junior and Senior students of Courses I, II, III and V, to consist of lectures and laboratory work.

The course is essentially a biological one. The general relations of the inorganic and organic worlds, the phenomena of life and the structure and life history of typical plants and animals are taught. The time spent in the classroom is, as far as possible, given to laboratory work.

A good museum furnishes a great part of the material needed for illustration and study. Mounted specimens, photographs and dissections prepared in the College are being constantly added.

MUSEUM OF NATURAL HISTORY.

The collections contain about 12,000 specimens: 550 plants, 750 vertebrates, 3000 invertebrates, 5000 minerals and 2400 rocks and fossils. The arrangement and cataloguing of the rocks and minerals of the City of New York, comprising nearly 2500 specimens, is complete, and the collection is being used.

In addition to the material purchased by the College, the following gifts have been made:

1. Birds' Eggs, Collection of..... Bashford Dean, A.M., Ph.D.
2. Birds of State of New York } Louis A. Zerega, A.B., M.D.

DESCRIPTIVE GEOMETRY AND DRAWING.

First year preparatory, Courses I, II, III and IV. The work of these four courses consists of practice in free-hand drawing from the flat and the round, in the elementary rules of perspective, and in surface shading whether by line or stump. The models range from the simple geometric to vases, and are drawn singly or in groups. The work is graded according to the individual ability of the students. Time, two hours per week.

Course V, Mechanical. In this course the work is equally divided between free-hand and mechanical drawing. The former embraces drawing from various geometrical models, singly and in groups, and surface shading ; the latter embraces simple working sketches (3d angle method) introducing conventions employed in practice, sections and shading, lettering, rivets, screw-threads, bolts, nuts, etc. Time, two hours per week.

Second year, Courses I, II, III, IV. Drawing from ornamental forms in shaded outline, from the round with surface shading, and further applications of the principles of perspective. Study of the head from the flat and the round, analysis of constructive forms and laws of perspective applicable thereto, tone values and shades and shadows as modified by reflected light. Time, two hours per week.

Course V, Mechanical. Alternate months of free-hand and mechanical drawing. The former includes selections from the work of the previous four courses to occupy the more limited amount of time; the latter, isometric and parallel perspective and the simpler details of the steam engine and other mechanical devices. Time, two hours per week.

Third year, Courses I, II, III and IV. Elementary principles of theoretical perspective, with as much elementary descriptive geometry as is necessary for their intelligent discussion and comprehension. Application of these principles to practice. No text-book is used, but the instructors explain the principles which are immediately applied by the students in the classroom. Time, two hours per week.

Freshman class, Courses I, II, III and IV. Continuation of the subject of descriptive geometry, such as change of position by translation and rotation, problems involving the plane, simple cases of tangency and development, sections, etc. Continuation of theoretical perspective, the laws of light and shades and shadows. Text-book, Woolf's Descriptive Geometry. Time, two hours per week.

Course V, Mechanical. Descriptive geometry with special reference to elevations, sections and plans of mechanical constructions. Theory of shades and shadows and application to mechanical design. Text-book, Woolf's Descriptive Geometry. Time, two hours per week.

Sophomore Class, Course V, Mechanical. Advanced work in descriptive geometry, such as warped surfaces, intersections, envelopment, etc. Shades and shadows in tinted drawings made from models, as valves, parts of steam engine, etc. Text-book, Woolf's Descriptive Geometry. Time, one hour per week.

Junior year, Course V, Mechanical. Construction of mechanical curves: cycloid, epicycloid, volute, involute, and their application to gears, etc.

Sketches of the steam-engine drawn in detail, from which, subsequently, finished drawings are made. Practice in flat-washing in application to machine and architectural drawing; construction of simpler mechanisms as hydrants, steam-drills, etc., and finishing with the steam-engine, gas-engine, and Corliss engine. Time, three hours per week.

Courses I, II, III and IV. This is an optional course. The students draw from the cast, either ornaments or organic forms, according to individual ability; they shade in charcoal, crayons, etc. Time, two hours per week.

Senior class. The Professor delivers lectures on Æsthetics and the History of Art to the entire Senior class once a week. Recitations on these lectures are heard, and essays on Art, Æsthetics and cognate subjects are required of the students pursuing the literary courses.

The casts belonging to this department are very fine, most of them having been taken from early molds. The collection contains many beautiful examples of the Phidian era, the most notable being a large number from the Frieze of the Parthenon, and a few of the best-preserved Metopes; the heroic statues of Theseus and Cephisus; a Caryatid from the Erechtheion. These copies of the Elgin Marbles were given by Charles M. Leupp, Esq. There are, furthermore, the busts of Jupiter from Otricoli, the Venus of Milo, the Venus of Arles, Juno, the Apollo Belvedere, the Belvedere Torso and examples of the work of Michael Angelo, Cellini and Thorwaldsen.

This department also makes use of a collection of about 275 photographs, the gift of the Class of '75, framed and hung in the halls of the College, illustrating the architecture and sculpture of the Greeks and Romans, early Christian and Renaissance painting in Italy and a number of the most noted buildings of all European countries. Each print is marked with the name, the date of production and the present location of the subject represented. East Indian architecture is likewise illustrated by a number of photographs purchased by the College.

MUSICAL COURSE.

A Musical Course, conducted by an instructor in music, is open to such members of the Senior class as desire to prepare themselves for examinations for teachers.

THE LIBRARY.

The library of the College contains 36,151 volumes. These are distributed in classes as follows:

Theology	919	Spanish Literature	287
Philosophy	1,549	Italian "	90
Law	503	Latin "	821
Mathematics	556	Greek "	768
Physics	2,445	Classical Philology	219
Natural History	1,577	Literature in General	278
Medicine	317	Linguistics	924
History of Science	94	Fine Arts	1,318
History	7,901	Bibliography	269
Biography	2,210	Works of Reference	810
Voyages and Travels	1,314	Periodicals	4,434
English Literature	3,497	Unclassified	1155
German "	935
French "	961	Total	36,151

Books may be taken from the library by the students as well as by the instructors; by the Alumni upon a deposit of $10; and by the teachers of the public schools of the city.

Books have been purchased with the money apportioned to the College while known as the Free Academy, as its share of the Literature Fund of the State; with the income of the Seth M. Grosvenor Fund of $30,000, and the Ephraim Holbrook Fund of $5000. Many books have been presented by authors, publishers and others, and the Board of Trustees has appropriated sums not exceeding $1000.

THE WORK-SHOP.

Connected with the College is a work-shop in which instruction is given in mechanical manipulation and the elements of mechanical theory. The shop is a room 118 feet by 35 feet, divided into four nearly equal parts. Of these, the first, the wood-working room, contains fifteen double benches, with closets and tools, for a class of thirty. The second, for forge and vise work, contains six forges, twenty anvils, two benches with fifteen vises, a bench for moulding and an assortment of forge and vise tools. It has accommodations for a class of thirty pupils. The third, or lathe room, contains twenty-six speed-lathes, for wood or metal turning, four engine lathes, a planer, a circular saw and two testing-machines, affording, like the others, accommodations for thirty students. The fourth contains a horizontal steam-engine of 25 horse-power, which drives the lathes and grind-stones, as well as the dynamos which furnish electric currents for experimental purposes and for the illumination of the shops. In an adjoining room are a Brown & Sharpe's Milling Machine, a gas-engine of 8 horse-power to take the place of the steam-engine when less power is required, and also a small vertical steam-engine, so arranged that it may be taken apart by students to allow of the study of its construction.

The course of study in the workshop extends over the last four years of Course V. The exercises and studies for the several years are as follows:

Freshman year—Theory and use of wood-working tools; properties, defects, treatment and preservation of timbers; use of the testing-machine in the testing of timber.

Sophomore year—Theory and use of metal-working tools; properties of metals and modes of working and testing them. Joining metals by riveting, soldering and brazing; use of the speed-lathe.

Junior year—Use of the engine lathe; screw cutting, boring, turning, facing; measures of precision; scraping, finishing and fitting; study of the parts of the steam-engine from drawings, models, descriptions and examination of engines.

Senior year—Managing and testing of engines; physical and mechanical experiments.

DISCIPLINE.

Every student shall conduct himself according to the rules of good manners, good morals, and manly propriety; shall give punctual and constant attention to all his duties; shall use the property of the institution with care and economy, and restore the same when required. For violations of the rules of the College, students are demerited, formally admonished, or suspended by the President, or dismissed by vote of the Faculty. No student is demerited without receiving notice of the fact and the reason. A student who has received 100 demerit marks in one term, or 175 in one Academic year, must leave the College.

CERTIFICATES OF STANDING.

A student who has remained at College for at least one year, and has borne a good character, will, when leaving, receive a certificate stating the time he has attended and the studies he has pursued, provided he has satisfactorily accounted for all the books and other property entrusted to him; but no student shall receive such a certificate if he be dismissed for misconduct. If a student absents himself for two weeks without permission, his name is stricken from the rolls and he loses his right to a certificate of good standing on leaving the institution.

EXAMINATIONS AND TERMS OF ADVANCEMENT.

1. There shall be an examination at the end of each Collegiate year, the same to commence at least two weeks prior to Commencement day. All the members of any class and all applicants for admission to the class next higher shall, except as may be otherwise ordered by the Faculty or the Board of Trustees, be examined at the same time in the same study, by written questions and by such oral examination as the Faculty may require.

2. There shall be an examination at the close of the first term, conducted in accordance with the schedule of recitations and extending over a period of five days; namely, the Wednesday, Thursday and Friday following the close of the first term, and the succeeding Monday and Tuesday. It shall be confined to subjects that have been presented to the students during the first term.

3. All claims for marks lost by absence from the mid-year examination shall be made to the Faculty immediately on the student's return to College, but no allowance of marks shall be made unless the student be examined on the work from which he was absent.

4. A student absent from the June examination in any department, and passed afterwards at a special examination, shall receive the mark obtained at such special examination, provided that it is not higher than his mark for the second term. If the examination mark exceed the term mark, he shall receive for his examination the same mark as he obtained for the second term.

5. Students ordered re-examined, who shall not attend at the time fixed for such re-examination, shall not be advanced, except by a vote of the Faculty.

6. No student shall be advanced on an oral examination alone, and no student shall be advanced until he has been examined in all the subjects of his class.

7. No student shall be advanced, and no student shall be admitted to any class except the sub-Freshman, unless by a vote taken at a meeting of the Faculty.

8. A student not advanced, who withdraws from College and thereafter applies for admission, shall make application to the Faculty as to the conditions on which he can be re-admitted.

9. The case of any student apparently guilty of communicating, copying or other like offence during examination, shall be referred to the Faculty for consideration.

10. A student found guilty of communicating with another in any study, shall forfeit that examination, and shall be rated deficient therein.

11. A student found to have had books, papers or writings in his possession, except such as are expressly permitted by the examiner, or who shall be judged to have received improper assistance of any kind, shall forfeit his examination; and no such student shall be advanced with his class.

12. Any student whose examination has been forfeited under either of the two preceding rules shall lose his standing, and his name shall be placed at the foot of the merit roll of his class, without marks.

13. A student shall not be advanced who at the end of either examination has received for that examination alone, or for that examination and the preceding term together:

a.—Less than 60 per cent. of the aggregate of maxima in all subjects.

b.—Less than 60 per cent. of the maximum in each of more than 3 subjects.

c.—Less than 60 per cent. of the maximum in each of any number of subjects constituting together one-half of his work.

d.—Less than 40 per cent. of the maximum in each of 3 subjects.

14. Students not coming under the above rule shall be considered individually by the Faculty; and it shall be the duty of each professor to call the attention of the Faculty to every student who is very deficient in his department.

15. A student absent from one quarter of the recitations of the term in any subject shall not be allowed to take the examination in that subject, except by special vote of the Faculty, and shall be rated deficient therein.

16. No student shall be permitted to spend more than one year in either the Freshman, Sophomore, Junior or Senior class, unless for exceptional reasons the Board of Trustees may permit; and no student shall remain in any class more than two years.

MERIT ROLL.

The Merit Roll is published at the end of each Collegiate year. On this roll each student is ranked according to his standing in his class, determined by his merit marks received for study and conduct during the two terms and at the examinations.

The Merit Roll maximum for each term in any subject is ascertained by multiplying the number of recitations in a week in that subject by one hundred; one-half of this maximum is for the term work and one-half for the examination.

The maximum of conduct for a term is two hundred, and the conduct mark of each student is determined by deducting from such maximum all his demerit marks.

On the Merit Roll the students are classified Highest, High, Good and Low.

The student who has the greatest number of marks in his class ranks Highest.

Students rank High the total of whose marks, in study and conduct together, equals or exceeds nine-tenths of the maximum.

Students rank Good the total of whose marks equals or exceeds seven-tenths of the maximum.

The remaining students rank Low.

COLLEGE PERIODICALS.

1. Every periodical or paper published by students, and sold or distributed by them within the College, shall have printed upon it the name of the Managing Editor, who shall be a student.

2. No such periodical or paper shall be sold or distributed in this College until the President shall be satisfied that the foregoing regulation has been complied with.

3. It shall be the duty of the Managing Editor to exclude from the columns of the College publication controlled by him all discourteous remarks, and all remarks whatsoever on the Officers or management of the College.

4. For any infraction of the preceding rules the Managing Editor shall be held responsible.

5. No periodical or paper, whose Managing Editor has violated the preceding rules, shall be sold or distributed in the College while he remains the Editor.

Medals and Prizes.

THE PELL MEDALS.

In 1849, Duncan C. Pell, by a gift of $500, established a gold medal, to be awarded annually to the student who shall rank highest in all the studies of the year taken together: and in 1856 the donor authorized the trustees of the fund to devote a portion of the income to the provision of a silver medal to be given to the student who shall rank second.

Trustees: The Chairman of the Board of Trustees, the President of the College, Hon. A. S. Hewitt.

THE CROMWELL MEDALS.

In 1850, Charles T. Cromwell, by a gift of $500, established a gold medal, to be awarded annually to the best scholar in History and Belles-Lettres, and in 1856 the donor authorized the provision of a silver medal for the second scholar.

Trustees: The President of the College, the Professor of History, Hon. Stuyvesant Fish.

THE WARD MEDALS.

In 1853, Augustus H. Ward established twenty bronze medals, to be awarded annually, each for one of the studies appointed, to the student of most proficiency therein, provided he shall have regularly pursued such study for not less than two months of the Collegiate year then closing; a student gaining one medal not to be precluded from obtaining others at the same time or subsequently.

The subjects are: Chemistry, Natural History, Natural Philosophy, Moral Philosophy, Political Science, English,

Greek, Latin, French, Spanish, German, Oratory, Composition, Logic, Astronomy, History, Drawing, Algebra and Geometry, Descriptive Geometry, Botany.

Trustees: The Board of Trustees.

THE RIGGS MEDALS.

In 1864, Elisha Riggs, by a gift of $1000, established a gold medal, to be annually awarded to the author of the best English Prose Composition in the Senior class, and a gold medal to be awarded to the author of the best English Prose Composition in the Junior class; any surplus of income to be applied by the trustees to further, in any way they may think best, the design of the donor to stimulate the cultivation of English Composition in the College of the City of New York. The competition is open to all who have received not less than four-fifths of the maximum in English Composition from the beginning of the Junior year. The names of the competitors must be handed to the President on or before the second Monday in February. The essays must be handed in on the last day of recitations in May.

Trustees: The President of the College, the Professor of History, the Professor of the English Language and Literature.

THE CLAFLIN MEDALS.

In 1871, John Claflin, by a gift of $1250, established two gold and two silver medals, to be awarded as follows:

A gold medal to the student of the Senior class who shall pass the best competitive examination in Greek; a gold medal to the student of the Junior class who shall pass the best competitive examination in Latin; a silver medal to the student of the Freshman class concerning whom the Professor of Greek shall certify that he has made the greatest proficiency in that department, and a silver medal to that student of the Freshman class who shall receive a corresponding certificate from the Professor of Latin.

Trustees: The President of the College, James P. Lowrey, Esq.

PRIZE FOR DECLAMATION—PROSE.

In 1852, the President of the Board of Education offered a prize for excellence in public speaking, to be called the PRIZE OF THE PRESIDENT OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION; and the successive Presidents of the Board have continued it.

The six speakers contending for this prize are chosen by their classmates, two from each of the three higher classes. Only such students are eligible as have not received fifty demerit marks during the first term or twenty-five during the second term preceding the day of the election. They speak selected pieces. The prize is awarded by a committee of gentlemen having no relation to the College and selected by the donor.

PRIZE FOR DECLAMATION—POETRY.

For thirty-eight years the late Professor Roemer provided anonymously a prize for the best declamation of poetry. In recognition of this fact and in honor of his memory and the name, the ROEMER PRIZE was established by the officers of the College and several graduates. The trustees of the fund (of $300) are the Chairman of the Executive Committee, the President of the Associated Alumni, and Russell Sturgis, Ph.D. The competitors are a Senior, a Junior and a Sophomore, selected from and by their several classes, in the same manner as the competitors for the prize of the President of the Board of Education. The declamations are delivered on the same occasion and judged by the same judges.

THE KELLY PRIZES.

In 1868, James Kelly, by a gift of $1000, established two prizes. One prize is given to the best debater in the Literary Societies; three contestants being chosen by the Clonian Society, and three by the Phrenocosmian. The President of the Board of Trustees selects the subject and submits it to the Faculty for approval. The debate is held in the College Chapel during the week preceding Commencement.

The other prize is given to the member of either society who shall write the best critique on some work of English literature. The subject is announced before the Christmas vacation, and the essays must be handed in on the first Monday in June.

The judges of the debate are selected by the President of the Board of Trustees; the judges of the essays are the President of the College, the Professor of History and the Professor of the English Language and Literature.

THE BELDEN PRIZES.

In 1883, William Belden, by a gift of $1000, established prizes for excellence in Pure Mathematics. The nature of the prizes and the terms of their award are to be determined from time to time by the President of the College and the Professor of Pure Mathematics.

At present the following prizes are to be awarded annually on Commencement day, in the Junior and Sophomore classes:

1. A gold medal to the student in each class of greatest proficiency in the studies of the department during the year. This greatest proficiency is to be determined either from the marks from recitations and on examinations, or by a special competitive examination, as may in each case seem best to the Trustees of the Prize.

2. A silver medal to any other student, in either class, whose aggregate marks for recitations and on examinations shall reach ninety-five per cent. of the maximum.

Trustees: The President of the College, the Professor of Pure Mathematics.

THE F. W. DEVOE & CO. PRIZES.

In 1885, F. W. Devoe & Co. offered two prizes, each to consist of a set of drawing instruments of the value of twenty-five dollars, for proficiency in the Mechanical Arts. They are to be awarded by a committee, consisting of the President of the College, the Chairman of the Board of Trustees and the Professor of Physics, to the student of greatest merit, in the first and second years, respectively, of the Work-shop Course. Students of the Classical and Scientific Courses may compete. The merits of the competitors are to be judged by the excellence and quickness of their work, and by the improvement made by them during the year.

THE KETCHUM PRIZES.

In May, 1891, Colonel Alexander P. Ketchum, of the Class of 1858, offered four prizes, to be awarded to those students of the Senior and Junior classes giving the best written evidence of proficiency in Philosophy and Political Economy at the June examinations in those subjects. The prizes are provided for annually by the donor, and the award is made by the Professor of Moral and Intellectual Philosophy.

THE BENNETT PRIZE IN POLITICAL SCIENCE.

James Gordon Bennett, on May 11, 1893, gave $1000 to the Trustees of the College for the endowment of an annual prize under the following terms:

"The amount to be invested and kept invested, and the income thereof, or a medal of equal value, to be given annually upon Commencement day to the undergraduate member of the Senior class who shall have taken the prescribed course of the institution in Political Science and English Literature, and who shall have prepared the best essay in English prose upon some subject of American governmental domestic or foreign policy of contemporaneous interest."

"The subjects to be selected and announced, the rules of competition formulated and the decision rendered by the Faculty of the College."

THE SERENA MASON CARNES PRIZE.

The Board of Trustees of the College of the City of New York accepted a prize of one hundred dollars, to be known as the SERENA MASON CARNES PRIZE, given by Mr. Mason Carnes, for the best translation, by students of the College above the Freshman class, of one or more scenes chosen by the Professors of the French and German Languages and Literatures and the Instructor in Spanish.

THE RALPH WEINBERG MEMORIAL PRIZE.

In 1898, Miriam Richter, by a gift of $500, established an annual prize to be awarded to that student of the Senior class who shall present for delivery upon the Chapel stage the best composition upon a topic approved by the Professor of the English Language and Literature. This prize is to be known as the Ralph Weinberg Memorial Prize.

Trustees: The President of the College, The Professor of History and the Professor of the English Language and Literature.

PRIZES OF PATRIOTIC SOCIETIES.

The Society of the "Sons of the Revolution in the State of New York" and the National Society of the "Sons of the American Revolution" offer prizes to members of the Junior and Senior classes for the best essay on some topic connected with the Revolutionary period. After February 22, 1902, the prizes of the former society will be awarded in a competition with students from other colleges.

CLASSICAL SCHOLARSHIPS.

This College being, through the action of its officers and alumni, associated with eighteen of the leading universities and colleges in the United States, in support of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens, the school is open to any properly qualified graduate of this College. Those desiring to avail themselves of this privilege should apply to the Professor of Greek for information and a certificate of scholarship.

DEGREES.

The degree of Bachelor of Arts is conferred on those students who have completed Courses I, II and III; that of Bachelor of Sciences on those who have completed Courses IV and V.

A Bachelor of Arts or of Sciences may be recommended for the degree of Master of Arts or of Sciences on conditions determined by the Faculty and Board of Trustees.

STUDENTS' AID FUND.

In 1857, the Associate Alumni established a fund for the purpose of assisting such students as might otherwise find difficulty in completing their Collegiate course. This fund is maintained by contributions from the alumni. The management of the fund is committed to five trustees, who loan, without interest, such sums as they think proper to deserving students; and neither the names of those to whom the loans are made, nor the amounts of the loans, are known to any but the trustees and the auditors of the fund.

The following are the present trustees, to whom application may be made:

ALFRED G. COMPTON, '53.....	At the College.
JOHN HARDY, '53.....	265 Broadway.
JOHN R. SIM, '68.....	At the College.
EVERETT P. WHEELER, '56.....	21 State Street.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

Two Literary Societies, the Clonian and the Phrenocosmian, are connected with the College. They are devoted to the cultivation of the arts of composition, oratory and debate, and the promotion of friendly intercourse between students.

Weekly meetings are held during the Collegiate year. The exercises consist of the reading of an essay and a selection, the delivery of a declamation or an oration, and the debate of a question previously appointed. At intervals a magazine is read, to which the members contribute, anonymously, articles of a lighter nature than the essays. The Clonian library, containing many valuable books, and the Phrenocosmian reading-room, where may be found the leading magazines and periodicals of the day, are in two of the side rooms of the Chapel, and are open to the members every afternoon of the College week.

Commencement Honors.

The Commencement of the College is held on the fortieth Thursday after the opening of the first term. The precedence of the Honor-men is determined as follows:

1. The orators at Commencement shall be the first six members of the graduating class in rank, counting from the beginning of the Freshman year to the close of the Senior year.

2. The Valedictory oration shall be the first honor, and the Salutatory shall be the second; the remaining honorary orations shall be numbered according to the rank of the students.

3. If any of these Honor-men, except the Valedictorian and the Salutatorian, have not received 85 per cent. in Oratory (composition and delivery) during the Senior year, his name shall be entered on the programme and marked excused.

4. Each Honor-man, not otherwise disqualified, shall deliver an original oration on Commencement, provided that in the opinion of the President and the Professor of the English Language and Literature the merits of the composition warrant public presentation; otherwise he shall not speak at Commencement, but shall be marked excused on the programme.

5. No oration shall be delivered at Commencement unless the rehearsal of it shall have been satisfactory.

6. In case any Honor-man is debarred from speaking by rule 3 or 4, his place shall be taken by some other student of the graduating class, selected by the Faculty, for excellence in oratory, from a list of three recommended by the Instructor in Elocution; but no student shall be so chosen unless he shall have attained 75 per cent. of the maximum of marks for the College course. The orations of such substitutes shall be designated on the programme as dissertations.

COMMENCEMENT.

The College.

THE College of the City of New York, originally entitled the Free Academy, was established in 1848 by the Board of Education of the City of New York, in pursuance of an Act of the Legislature of the State passed May 7, 1847, and ratified by a vote of the people of the city June 9, 1847. The first class entered January, 1849, and completed its course in July, 1853. In the year 1854 the Legislature passed a law endowing the institution with collegiate powers and privileges, so far as pertained to the conferring upon its graduates the usual collegiate degrees and diplomas in the Arts and Sciences. In the year 1866, on the recommendation of the Board of Education, the Legislature of the State changed the name to that of "The College of the City of New York," and conferred on the institution the powers and privileges of a college, pursuant to the Revised Statutes of the State, rendering it subject to the provisions of the said statutes relative to colleges and to visitation of the Regents of the University, in like manner with other colleges of the State, and making the members of the Board of Education, ex-officio, the Trustees of the College. In 1872 the President of the College was by Act of Legislature made a member of the Board of Trustees. In the year 1882 the Legislature repealed so much of the statutes relating to the College as had made one year's attendance at the public schools of the city a requisite for admission, thus opening the College to all young men of the city of proper age and sufficient preparation.

In May, 1900, by amendment of the foregoing provisions, the Legislature created a separate Board of Trustees, composed of nine members to be appointed by the Mayor, charged with the sole care and control of the College. Of this Board, the President of the Board of Education of the City of New York is, ex-officio, an additional member. The appointive members serve for nine years each.

Instruction in the College is free; so is the use of textbooks and apparatus. The buildings are located at the corner of Twenty-third Street and Lexington Avenue.

Connected with the College is an Academic or Preparatory Department, housed in two "Annexes" in the immediate vicinity. Its course of three years is substantially the same as that of the corresponding years in the High Schools of the city.

TERMS AND VACATIONS.

The College year begins on the Thursday following the second Monday of September and closes on the fortieth Thursday thereafter. It is divided into two terms. The first term closes on the second Friday of January; the second term begins on the fourth Monday of January. Each is followed by an examination.

There are three vacations—the Summer vacation, from the day after Commencement to the Thursday after the second Monday in September; the Winter vacation, from the 25th day of December to the 2d day of January, inclusive, and the Spring vacation, the week following Good Friday. There are no College exercises on legal holidays or on any Friday immediately following a legal holiday.

The dates for the terms, vacations and College functions for the current year will be found in the Calendar at the end of the Register.

REQUISITES FOR ADMISSION.

I. Preparatory.—Graduates of the Public School are admitted to the first Preparatory Year (Sub. Freshman C) without examination, on presenting the Regular Certificate required by the Board of Education for graduation. Other applicants must pass an examination satisfactory to the Faculty in Spelling, English Grammar, Arithmetic, Geo- graphy, History of the United States and the Elements of Industrial Drawing. Those who enter either by examinations or certificate are admitted on probation for eight weeks, at the end of which their names are regularly entered on the rolls of the College, provided that in the interval they have maintained the required standing.

Applicants for admission to the second and third year classes are required to pass the regular examinations held for advancement to those classes or such other examinations as may be ordered by the Board of Trustees. Candidates from the High Schools of the city are admitted to the corresponding classes of this department on certificate of the principals.

II. Collegiate.—The students of the third year preparatory are advanced to the Freshman class on passing the final examinations in June in their department. Graduates from the High Schools of the city are admitted to this class on the certificate of the principals. All other candidates must be examined at the same time with the third year preparatory students or at such other time as may be directed.

Applicants for admission to the other College classes may be admitted upon presenting satisfactory papers of dismissal from the college previously attended by them and passing an examination the same as or equivalent to that which shall have been required from students of the College for promotion to the class to which admission is sought. No candidate shall be admitted later than the beginning of the Senior year.

COURSES OF STUDY.

There are five Courses of Study continuous throughout the three Academic or preparatory years and the four Collegiate years. These courses are:

I. Language Course, Classical.

II. Language Course, Latin and French.

III. Language Course, Modern.

IV. Scientific Course.

V. Scientific Course, Mechanical.

Every student shall, upon entering the College, elect what course he will follow, subject to such approval by the father of the student, or otherwise, as the President of the College shall direct. Students may thereafter be transferred from one course to another in such manner and upon such conditions as may be prescribed by the Faculty.

As the courses are all intended to promote a sound general culture, each department is represented in each course either by prescribed or elective work. On the other hand, the courses are so arranged as to offer to the student a reasonable opportunity to follow selected lines of study. While emphasis is laid in each course upon a given group of studies, the student is enabled to pursue some branches lying outside of that group. Thus, in the Classical Course, where special prominence is given to Latin and Greek, the student must undertake one modern language and may study two. In the Scientific Courses he must pursue certain liberal studies as well as such as are strictly scientific. In the Junior and Senior years optional branches are open to him as specified in the curriculum.

The Mechanical Course differs from the Scientific Course proper in that it makes the applications of mechanical science prominent and requires practice in the workshop and mechanical laboratories.

While in the main the student has an average of twenty hours a week of college work, the total sometimes rises to twenty-one or twenty-two owing to laboratory work or hours assigned to sight reading in the ancient and modern languages. Students in the Language Courses may devote some time in the afternoon to the workshop, provided such additional time does not interfere with their regular work or the regulations of the Faculty.

The details of the curriculum and the work pursued in each department are given in the pages immediately following.

Departments of Study.

ENGLISH LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

In the preparatory years, the work of the English department is the same in all five courses.

During the first year four hours a week are devoted to the subject. The students receive a thorough training in English grammar and in the structure of the English sentence. They study critically about four hundred pages of prose and verse by American authors, and write short fortnightly themes. The text-books used are Kittredge and Arnold's The Mother Tongue, Part II, Carpenter's Elements of Rhetoric, First High School Course, and Masterpieces of American Literature.

In the second year, two hours a week, the rhetorical study includes vocabulary, qualities of style, the paragraph and the development of the whole composition. In literature about four hundred pages of prose and verse by British authors are critically analyzed. Short fortnightly themes and four longer essays are written, and each student has personal conferences with his instructor in relation to his compositions. Carpenter's Elements, First High School Course, and Masterpieces of British Literature are the books used.

In the third year, two hours a week, themes, essays and conferences are required as in the previous year, and in addition six hundred pages of home-reading. Macaulay's Warren Hastings, Burke's Speech on Conciliation and Shakespeare's Julius Cæsar and Macbeth are critically studied.

For the college classes the work of the department is the same in all five courses except in the Junior year.

Freshman Class—Two hours a week. The history of English literature is studied, chiefly in connection with the development of the poetry. Moreover, the students are required to read critically all the pieces in Pancoast's volume, and to comprehend fully all the allusions. Essays are written, and discussed in personal conferences with the instructors. Stopford Brooke's English Literature, Pancoast's Standard English Poems, Gayley's Classic Myths in English Literature, are the text-books.

Sophomore Class—Two hours a week. The historical development of English prose will be considered; then the style of the best modern writers will be analyzed; and finally attention will be given to argumentative composition and the construction of briefs. Essays, briefs and orations are to be written, and discussed in personal conferences with the instructors. The books for the year are Genung's Rhetoric and Handbook of Rhetorical Analysis, Baker's Principles of Argumentation and Pancoast's Standard English Prose.

Junior Class, Courses I, II, III, IV—Two hours a week. Wendell's William Shakespeare, Shakespeare's Midsummer Night's Dream, Henry V, As You Like It, Hamlet, King Lear, The Tempest. These plays are studied chiefly from the standpoint of dramatic construction, character portrayal and poetic beauty. The linguistic element, while not overlooked, is subordinated to the artistic. In connection with the dramas, Shakespeare's life and times are also considered. Essays are written and personal conferences on composition are held. Course V—One hour a week. Similar work is done, but only half the amount.

Senior Class—Two hours a week, elective, open to students of all courses. The Works of Tennyson (Globe edition). Most of Tennyson's poems will be critically considered, but special emphasis will be laid upon The Idylls of the King. Students will be expected to read in the works of other poets of the nineteenth century and to write essays and reports.

Every Senior and Junior must write an original oration. Those pieces which are found to be sufficiently meritorious are rehearsed with the Instructor in Elocution and spoken in the college chapel before the students and the Faculty. Every Sophomore must rehearse with the Instructor of Elocution and deliver before the students one selected declamation.

LATIN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

The Latin Course in the preparatory classes is substantially the same as that of the Classical Course in the New York High Schools. Alongside of Leighton's Latin Lessons, Allen and Greenough's Latin Grammar is studied, and this Grammar is retained throughout the entire course. In this manner the student gradually becomes thoroughly familiar with his text-book. The second year is devoted to the study of Cæsar's Gallic War, of which four or five books are taken. Weekly Latin Prose Exercises, based on the student's work in Cæsar, strengthen his knowledge of Latin grammar as they deepen his understanding of the author's text. It may be stated here, once for all, that exercises in Latin Prose Composition run parallel with the study of the Latin authors throughout the entire Latin Course in the preparatory as well as in the Collegiate classes. Cicero is the chief author read in the third year Academic. Some five or six of his orations are carefully gone through, attention being paid not only to the syntax, but also to the historical and other features suggested by the text. The hours allotted to sight reading are given to the study of Sallust's Bellum Catilinæ, as an aid to the understanding of Cicero's orations against Catiline.

In the Freshman class Vergil's Aeneid (four or five books) is the work assigned. Sight reading is continued, Post's Latin at Sight being the text-book. In the Sophomore year, first term, Livy (two books) is the author regularly studied. For sight reading, Cicero's treatises, De Amicitia and De Senectute, have been selected.

The Odes and Epodes of Horace form the subject of prepared study during the second term of the Sophomore year, while the Tenth Book of Quintilian's Institutiones is read at sight. The study of Horace is continued in the Junior year: the first term being devoted to his Satires and Epistles. A selection from Cicero's Letters is read at sight. In the second term the Juniors study the Annals of Tacitus and read a play of Terence at sight. The obligatory Latin in the Senior year consists of a play of Plautus in the first term and of selections from the Latin Poets (Crowell's) in the second. The Elective Course comprises Cicero's De Natura Deorum, which is intended to help the Seniors in their study of the history of philosophy, and Juvenal's Satires.

The course thus outlined acquaints the student with Latin literature from its beginnings in Plautus through the classical age to the silver Latin of Tacitus and Juvenal. Thus he studies the greatest writers in prose and poetry, the course embracing selections from the Latin historians, orators, philosophers and letter-writers, as well as from the dramatic, lyric, elegiac, satiric and epic poets. It is expected that at the end of his course the student will read fluently Latin prose and the less difficult Latin poets. As far as Latin is concerned, he will have the classical culture expected in a physician or lawyer, and be prepared for such courses in linguistic, philosophical, political and historical science leading to the degree of Ph.D. as require a previous knowledge of Latin.

As the same methods of instruction are followed from the lowest preparatory year to the Senior class, the student will lose no time in accommodating himself to new and divergent modes of teaching. Thoroughness is aimed at above all; quantity is subordinate to quality. In translating, not only a correct and idiomatic, but, as far as possible, an elegant English version is demanded; it is the aim of the department in every way to aid the student in acquiring a complete control of the vernacular.

The Latin-French Course, as far as its Latin studies are concerned, is practically identical with the Classical Course.

There are very short and elementary elective Latin Courses in the Junior and Senior classes of the Scientific, the Mechanical and the Modern Language Courses. The studies pursued are Leighton's Lessons and Latin Grammar in the Junior class, and Latin Grammar, two books of Cæsar's Gallic War, an oration of Cicero, and a book of Vergil's Aeneid in the Senior class.

GREEK LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

The course of study of the Greek Language and Literature begins with the second year of the seven-year course and continues until the end of the College course. A new feature, sight reading, independent of work requiring preparation, has been introduced, beginning with the Freshman class, continuing through the remaining years, and in the Senior class taking the entire time of the student for the time prescribed in the Classical Course for the study of Greek. This exercise is conducted by reading texts not used for home study, and the student is required in the classroom to work out in the presence of the class the construction and translation of these texts. The brief experience already had seems to show that beneficial results may be expected from the continued use of the method.

The following syllabus will apply in future years only to the class that begins the study in the second year of the Sub-freshman course. After this year all the other classes will gradually approach their normal state of knowledge and their studies become proportionally more advanced than they appear in the syllabus.

Beginning in the second year of the preparatory course, five hours weekly are given to the subject. The students pursue the simultaneous study of the orthography, etymology and syntax, and their exemplification in easy Attic prose. The student is taught to read, translate and analyze constructions and to translate English into Attic Greek. The Greek selections are mainly taken from Xenophon.

The third-year class also begins Greek, with four hours per week. Owing to their greater age, it appears that they accomplish as much work as the third-year students do with the longer time given them. Both these classes study the same text-book, which is prepared to engage the attention of a class for one year. Hereafter the third-year class will have had one year's preparation and will do the work of the present Freshman class.

The Freshman class has had one year of preparation in Greek. Three hours weekly are now given to work requiring home study, and two hours weekly to sight reading. The class, in work requiring preparation, reads Xenophon's Anabasis and has one exercise weekly in Greek prose composition. In sight reading the two hours weekly are given to Xenophon's Hellenica, text only being used without notes. In the Anabasis attention is constantly directed to historical and geographical allusions. The difference between Greek and English idioms is explained. In sight reading the student is stimulated and encouraged to apply his acquired knowledge as the basis of independent effort.

The Sophomore class has had only the same amount of preparation as the Freshman,—one year,—and begins the year with the same tasks. Two hours are given to work requiring preparation and two hours to sight reading. In the first term Xenophon's Anabasis is read, but in the second term the Memorabilia, in which the author uses a very different vocabulary and more difficult constructions, suitable to the changed subject and ideas. In sight reading the Hellenica is read both terms. One exercise weekly in Greek prose composition is here required. In the first term history and geography are dwelt upon, while in the second term attention is given to the doctrines and method of Socrates as described by Xenophon.

The Junior class reads and the succeeding one will read passages from Demosthenes in the first term and Homer's Iliad the second term for prepared work two hours weekly. After these two years our Junior classes will have had more time for preparation, and these studies will be transferred to the Sophomore year. In sight reading, this year the class has read selections from Herodotus.

In the first term, the period of Demosthenes and the events leading up to his great oration are explained. In the second term, the meter of Homer is explained; the different dialects he employs are illustrated, and the story, with its religion, etc., dwelt upon. Modern archæological research and its discoveries are presented to the student. One exercise weekly has been required in Greek prose composition. In this and the Senior class instruction is constantly given in the manners, customs, philosophy and religion of the ancient Greeks.

In the Senior class the only prescribed work is in sight reading, to which two hours weekly are given. In this prescribed course a Greek comedy, Aristophanes' Plutus, is read, and portions of Æschines' oration against Ctesiphon. In future, when the Senior class has had greater preparation, other works will be read. This year a class in the Senior year has elected the study of Greek for three hours per week. These students read in the first term selections from Thucydides, and in the second term a Greek tragedy, Æschylus' Prometheus, and a comedy of Aristophanes, the Acharnians. Numerous talks have been had on the drama, the meter, the archæology, and religious and philosophical ideas involved in reading the authors.

FRENCH LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

The study of French is pursued in the three preparatory years in all the courses, the number of hours varying. In Course I there is a choice between French and German.

First year, Courses I and II, two hours per week. The student begins with the Complete French Course, sixty numbers of Chardenal; also, Verbes Français, C. F. In Courses III, IV and V, five hours per week, the students take forty numbers more of Chardenal and fifty pages of Thiers' Expedition de Bonaparte.

Second year, Course I, two hours per week. The first year's work is reviewed and forty new numbers of Chardenal taken up. In Course II, five hours per week, a similar review is followed with further work in Chardenal and the study of Expedition de Bonaparte. In Courses III, IV and V, four hours per week, additional numbers of Chardenal and fifty pages Contes, A. Daudet.

Third year, Course I, two hours per week. Reviews, Chardenal, Thiers. Course II, four hours per week, Sarcey, Siège de Paris, and Daudet. Courses III, IV and V, five hours per week, two of which are devoted to sight reading in Le Sage, Gil Blas. The other three hours, prescribed work, are devoted to the reading of Siège de Paris. Weekly written exercises are required of the students in each of the preparatory years.

In the College years the study of French is continued in longer and shorter courses.

Freshman class, Course I, two hours per week. Daudet and Sarcey. Course II, five hours per week, three of them for prescribed work in Demogeot's Grands Ecrivains, eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, and two in sight reading, Le Sage. Courses IV and V, one hour per week, Demogeot.

Sophomore class, Course I, three hours per week. Students now in their fifth year of French continue in Demogeot's Grands Ecrivains. Those who begin the study have Chardenal and Verbes Français. Courses II and III, four hours per week, two prescribed and two for sight reading, Demogeot and Sandeau. Courses IV and V, substantially the same as Course I.

Junior class, Course I, three hours per week. Sixth-year students go on with Demogeot in Grands Ecrivains, and the second-year students with Daudet and Thiers. Course II, three hours, one prescribed, in which Corneille's Le Cid, five acts, is read. For sight reading the authors used are Lamartine, Scenes de la Révolution, and Labiche et Martins' Le Voyage de M. Perrichon. Course III, one hour's sight reading in Lamartine. Courses IV and V, three hours per week. Students in their sixth year of French take up Corneille, Le Cid; Racine, Andromaque; Balzac, Eugénie Grandet. Second-year students the same as in Course I.

Senior class, Course I, three hours per week. Students in their seventh year of French take up Le Cid, Andromaque and Eugénie Grandet. Students this year read Sandeau, Mademoiselle de la Sieglière, five acts, and Daudet, Le Petit Chose. Courses II and III, two hours per week sight reading in Dumas, La Question d'Argent, and Voltaire, selected letters; also three hours per week prescribed work with such authors as V. Hugo, Hernani; Molière, Le Tartuffe; Racine, Athalie. Courses IV and V, two hours prescribed work for students in their seventh year. Hugo and Molière. Students in their third year read in Grands Ecrivains, Vol. II.

GERMAN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

In the preparatory classes, two lessons a week are assigned to German for the first year. They are devoted to the acquisition of the elements—vocabulary, phraseology and grammar; the text-book is the American edition of Eysenbach, of which the first third is studied. In the second year, there are two lessons a week in Courses I and II, five lessons in Courses III, IV and V. In the former, the grammar is completed and portions of a reader (Joyne's) are read; in the latter, additional exercises (Harris' Composition) are done, the reader is completed, poems are memorized. In the third year, two lessons a week, of Course I, it is intended to accomplish the five hour second-year work just described; while in the third year of Courses III, IV, V, in which four hours a week are assigned, composition is continued, more attention is given to conversation, more difficult texts are read.

In all courses, the Freshman class beginning German acquires a vocabulary of moderate extent, the elements of the grammar, familiar phraseology, and has practice in reading and translation. In the Sophomore year prose and poetry of medium difficulty are read; short poems are memorized, and prose passages are so learned that the students reproduce the German when the teacher gives the translation.

To the Junior class more difficult prose is offered—a reader for the upper grades of a German gymnasium being used—and the classic poets are presented. Memorizing, conversation, composition, are continued. The Seniors of the Scientific Course read Wilhelm Tell, portions of some popular scientific book, such as Lannhardt's Am sausenden Webstuhl der Zeit, and have occasional exercises in composition. Wallenstein is read by the Sections having two hours a week of sight reading. In the Elective courses three hours a week, the work embraces written translation of passages from English novels and magazine articles, the reading of a German story, a literary monograph, a comedy, such as Fulda's Der Talisman.

It may be added that sight reading is prescribed in all the College classes of Course III and in one year of Courses IV and V. The Freshmen, Sophomores and Juniors, according to course and degree of advancement, read Seidel's Lebrecht Huehnchen, stories from Hauff's Karawane and extracts from Freytag's Soll und Haben. Students in their fifth year of German receive systematic instruction in the History of German Literature.

SPANISH LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

In the preparatory department the study of Spanish begins in the second year, Courses II and III, two hours per week. The rudiments of the language—grammar, reading, dictation and composition—are taken up and special importance attached to the acquisition of a correct pronunciation. Loiseaux's Spanish Grammar is the text-book. The third year is devoted to a review of the rudiments and continuation of the reading.

In the Collegiate department Spanish is pursued in all the courses either as a prescribed or elective study. In Courses II and III, continuing from the preparatory years, it remains as prescribed work through the Freshman, Sophomore and Junior classes. The Freshmen recite two hours a week. Explanations and conversation will be conducted as much as possible in the Spanish tongue, Loiseaux's Grammar and Reader being the guides. The Sophomores, three hours a week, continue along the same lines with more advanced text-books, including old Spanish comedies, Moratin, etc.

In Courses I, IV and V the study is elective, beginning in Sophomore year and continued through Junior and Senior years. The work is the same as for beginners in the preparatory courses, but the students are able to advance more rapidly.

Junior year, Courses II and III, three hours per week, will be devoted to the study of Spanish literature, Don Quijote and others. In Courses I, IV and V, three hours per week, the instruction is the same as that given to the Sophomore class, Courses II and III.

In Senior year, three hours are assigned to the work and in Courses IV and V, two hours per week. The studies are the same as those taken up in Junior year, Courses II and III. Courses II, III and IV, three hours per week, are elective.

HISTORY.

The study of history extends through the three preparatory classes in all the courses, two hours per week. In the first and second years, with Myer's General History for the leading text-book, the students go through the Greek and Roman and the main portions of the mediæval and modern periods. The use of maps, written exercises and side reading, as far as possible, are required. In the third year English history, Coman and Kendall's, and some special topics are studied more in detail. The instructors add largely, by reference to sources and through lectures, to the matter in the text-book.

The Sophomore class continues the study, two hours a week, enlarging on the modern period. In the Junior year the systematic study of American history is taken up and continued into the Senior year, the aim of the course being not only to extend the student's knowledge in this field, but also to lead him into critical and comprehensive methods of studying the history of his own country. Three hours are assigned to the Senior class for this work, and the course is optional. The instruction is given both through text-books and lectures, and the members of the class write essays on given topics. They are also called upon to discuss the subjects in the classroom, where they become familiar with the principal standard and, to some extent, the original authorities, on American history.

In general, the course for these two years includes a study of our constitutional beginnings in the colonial period, involving the relation of American history to English; the period of the Revolution, with the origin of the Union; and a survey of American politics down through the Reconstruction period. This study of constitutional and political history is followed by a course in American constitutional law, including comparisons with the constitutions of other nations. The books used in the classroom in connection with the lectures are Hart's Formation of the Union, Burgess' The Middle Period and some author on constitutional law. Authorities, works of reference and other aids are at the disposal of the students.

A cabinet in connection with the department contains a collection of electroypes of nearly four hundred of the finest ancient coins in the British Museum, the obverse and the reverse of each coin being shown. The arrangement exhibits, chronologically and geographically, the history of coinage from 700 B. C. to the Christian Era. An additional section exhibits the most famous medallions struck from A. D. 1 to 217. The whole collection is the gift of the Class of '75.

PHILOSOPHY.

The studies in this department are commenced in the Sophomore year. Logic, deductive and inductive, is then studied as a preparatory discipline. The first term of the Junior year is devoted to the study of political science and international law; during the second term economic science is taken up, and special attention is given to questions of international trade, money and banking.

In the Senior year psychology is studied during the first term. The treatment is descriptive, physiological and experimental. The subjects of the second term are history of philosophy and ethics. Philosophical doctrines and systems of historic importance are examined, their evolution is traced and their implications are developed.

A three years' course in pedagogy is offered to students intending to teach. This course begins in the Sophomore year with the study of logic; the Junior year is devoted to psychology, and the Senior-year work is in the history of education and the principles and practice of teaching.

MATHEMATICS.

The students of the first year preparatory, in all the five courses, have five recitations per week in Mathematics and pursue the same studies. They complete three books of Legendre's Geometry and Beman and Smith's, or Wentworth's, Algebra, through Simultaneous Equations of the First Degree.

Students of the second year, in Courses I, II and III, have three recitations per week in Mathematics and study Legendre's Geometry, Books IV and V, and Beman and Smith's Algebra, through Simple Equations. Students in Courses IV and V have five recitations per week. They study Books IV and V of Legendre, and Fischer and Schwatt's Algebra through Evolution.

In the third year students of Courses I, II and III have three recitations per week. They study Wentworth's Algebra from Simultaneous Equations of the First Degree, through Radicals, and finish Legendre's Geometry, beginning with Book VI. Students in Courses IV and V have five hours per week. They will study Hall and Knight's Algebra as far as Series, and will complete Wentworth's Solid Geometry.

In the Collegiate years the Freshman class, in Courses I, II and III, has three recitations per week. These students finish during the year Legendre's Geometry, Plane and Solid, and Crawley's Plane Trigonometry. Students in Courses IV and V have four recitations per week. They complete Loomis' Algebra and Wheeler's Plane and Spherical Trigonometry, and Wentworth's Plane Analytical Geometry.

The Sophomore class, in Courses I, II and III, has two recitations per week. These students take up Wheeler's Spherical Trigonometry and Peck's Analytical Geometry — an abridged course. Students in Courses IV and V have five recitations per week. They receive a brief course of oral instruction in Surveying and complete Wentworth's Analytical Geometry.

Students of the Junior class, in Courses I, II and III, have two hours per week as an elective study. They complete Peck's Analytical Geometry, and have a brief course in Calculus. Students in Course III have three hours per week as an elective, and those in Course V the same time as a prescribed study. They will study Osborne's Differential and Integral Calculus and Barton's Theory of Equations.

In the Senior class, in all the courses, Mathematics is an elective study, with two recitations per week. Students in Courses I, II and III who have heretofore had no Calculus will pursue a brief course in that subject. Students who have had instruction in Calculus, including all those in Course V, will study Theory of Equations and Differential Equations.

CHEMISTRY.

The curriculum in force provides several courses in Chemistry. Students of Course IV receive instruction during four years. Those of the Language Courses have one year of prescribed and a year of elective work. Students of Course V have two years of prescribed and a year of elective study.

The time allotted is divided between lectures and laboratory, recitations being conducted during some of these hours. The lecture room accommodates nearly 200. The apparatus and collections of charts and specimens are well adapted to fully illustrate the topics presented. Numerous experiments are offered in demonstration of the important chemical laws and their applications. All the lectures are fully illustrated with experiments, charts and drawings on the slates.

The laboratories are commodious, but taxed to their fullest capacity by the present arrangement of classes. The desks enable the students to perform the various operations of experimental and analytical chemistry. A reference library is at hand for the instructing staff and the students.

The elective courses are preparatory to the special courses of technical and university schools.

Freshman year. Course IV. Scientific. Three hours weekly: one hour lecture and two hours laboratory. Elementary general Chemistry, Newth's Inorganic Chemistry as a text-book. Experimental work in the laboratory, with outlines of qualitative analysis. Clowes's Analytical Chemistry as text-book.

Sophomore year. Course IV. Scientific. Three hours weekly: one hour lecture and two hours laboratory. General Chemistry, advanced course. Continuation of qualitative analysis and introduction to quantitative analysis. Newth's Inorganic Chemistry and Clowes's Analytical Chemistry are used this year as text-books.

Course V. Mechanical. Two hours weekly. General Chemistry. Lectures only. Newth's Inorganic Chemistry as a text-book.

Junior year. Courses I, II and III. Language Courses. Three hours weekly: one hour lecture and two hours laboratory. This course is prescribed and intended as a cultural course. The topics presented are therefore selected to that end. The laboratory work corresponds to the same idea. Remsen's College Chemistry and Curtman's Analytical Chemistry are in use as text-books. This course leads to an elective in the Senior year.

Course IV. Scientific. Four hours weekly: two hours lecture and two hours laboratory. Quantitative analysis, gravimetric and volumetric. The lectures continue inorganic chemistry and begin organic. Bloxam's Inorganic and Organic Chemistry, and Curtman's Qualitative and Volumetric Analysis as text-books.

Course V. Mechanical. Two hours weekly, both laboratory, with recitations. This course is directed to topics essential to students taking a mechanical course, and discusses the chemistry of the metals particularly. Bloxam and Curtman as text-books.

Senior year. Courses I, II and III. Language Courses. Elective, three hours weekly: one hour lecture and two hours laboratory. This course follows the prescribed course of the Junior year and is especially intended for students requiring certificates for medical and technical schools and the Regents' examinations. It is on General Chemistry, with as much quantitative analytical work as can be introduced in such short hours. Bloxam's Inorganic and Organic Chemistry has been used as a text-book. Curtman's Qualitative and Volumetric Analysis has been used in laboratory work.

Course IV. Scientific. Five hours weekly: one hour lecture and four hours laboratory. Completion of the four-years' course. Chiefly organic chemistry with applied chemistry. Bloxam's Inorganic and Organic Chemistry has been the text-book.

Course V. Mechanical. Three hours weekly. Elective. Special topics in chemistry as applied to mechanic arts. One hour lecture and two hours laboratory. Bloxam's Inorganic and Organic Chemistry as text-book, with special treatises on laboratory work.

PHYSICS.

A. Prescribed Work.

Freshman class, Courses I, II and III. Elements of Physics, two hours a week, recitations, with occasional illustrated lectures. Text-book, Cooley's The Student's Manual, entire.

Courses IV and V, the same, and one hour a week of laboratory work on the subjects studied.

Course V, Work-shop study and practice, Wood-working tools and methods, four hours a week. Text-book, Compton's First Lessons in Wood-working.

Sophomore class, all courses. Advanced and Mathematical Physics, text-book and occasional lectures, two hours a week, and laboratory work one hour.

Course V, Work-shop study and practice, forge and vise work, tools and methods, four hours a week. Text-book, Compton's First Lessons in Metal-Working. The Speed-Lathe commenced. Text-book, Compton and De Groot, The Speed-Lathe.

Junior class, Courses IV and V. Elementary Analytical Mechanics, text-book and lectures, two hours a week.

Course V, Work-shop study and practice. The Speed-Lathe continued, elements of Pattern-making, the Engine Lathe and Planer, four hours a week.

Senior class, Course V. Analytical Mechanics, advanced, Bartlett and lectures, two hours a week, Spherical and Practical Astronomy, with practical exercises, three hours a week. Text-books, Bartlett's Spherical Astronomy and Young's Elements of Astronomy. The Theory of Prime Movers, recitations and lectures, three hours a week. Text-book, Rankine's Prime Movers. Mechanical Laboratory, various physical measurements, testing of machines, etc., four hours a week.

B. Elective Work.

Junior class, Courses I, II and III, Elements of Analytical Mechanics, as prescribed for Courses IV and V in the same year, recitations and lectures two hours a week, or Astronomy, Young's Elements, with practical exercises, two hours a week.

Senior class, Courses I, II, III and IV, Advanced Physics, Heat and Electricity, recitations and laboratory, three hours a week. Courses I, II, III, Astronomy, Young's Elements, with practical exercises, two hours a week. Course IV, Astronomy, as above, three hours a week.

NATURAL HISTORY.

The arrangement of the studies in this department is as follows:

PRESCRIBED COURSES.

SENIOR COURSE IV.— { Mineralogy, } Text-book (Scott) and lectures.
Geology, { Reference books (Dana and Palaeontology } Zittel).

Four hours a week. Prof. STRATFORD.

JUNIOR COURSE IV.—Biology. { Text-books (Parker-Haswell and Marshall-Hurst) and lectures.

Four hours a week. Prof. STRATFORD.

JUNIOR COURSE V.—Economic Natural History. Lectures.

Two hours a week. Ass't Prof. SICKELS.

SOPHOMORE COURSES I, II, III. { Comparative } Text-books (Parker-Haswell and Zoölogy. } Jordan and Kellogg) and lectures.

Two hours a week. Ass't Prof. SICKELS.

Instructor SUMNER.

SOPHOMORE COURSE IV. { Comparative } Text-books (Parker-Haswell and Zoölogy } Jordan and Kellogg) and lectures.

Three hours a week. Ass't Prof. SICKELS.

Instructor SUMNER.

FRESHMAN COURSES I, II, { Anatomy, Physiology } Lectures.
III, IV and V. } and Hygiene.

Two hours a week. Instructor BRYAN.

ELECTIVE COURSES.

In addition to the foregoing, electives in Biology and Geology are offered to the Junior and Senior students of Courses I, II, III and V, to consist of lectures and laboratory work.

The course is essentially a biological one. The general relations of the inorganic and organic worlds, the phenomena of life and the structure and life history of typical plants and animals are taught. The time spent in the classroom is, as far as possible, given to laboratory work.

A good museum furnishes a great part of the material needed for illustration and study. Mounted specimens, photographs and dissections prepared in the College are being constantly added.

MUSEUM OF NATURAL HISTORY.

The collections contain about 12,000 specimens: 550 plants, 750 vertebrates, 3000 invertebrates, 5000 minerals and 2400 rocks and fossils. The arrangement and cataloguing of the rocks and minerals of the city of New York, comprising nearly 2500 specimens, is complete, and the collection is being used.

In addition to the material purchased by the College, the following gifts have been made:

1. Birds' Eggs, Collection of..... Bashford Dean, A.M., Ph.D.
2. Birds of State of New York { (100 Spec.)..... Louis A. Zerega, A.B., M.D.

DESCRIPTIVE GEOMETRY AND DRAWING.

First year preparatory, Courses I, II, III and IV. The work of these four courses consists of practice in free-hand drawing from the flat and the round, in the elementary rules of perspective, and in surface-shading whether by line or stump. The models range from the simple geometric to vases and are drawn singly or in groups. The work is also graded according to the individual ability of the students. Time, two hours per week.

Course V, Mechanical. In this course the work is equally divided between free-hand and mechanical drawing. The former embraces drawing from various geometrical models, singly and in groups, and surface-shading; the latter embraces simple working sketches (3d angle method) introducing conventions employed in practice, sections and shading, lettering, rivets, screw-threads, bolts, nuts etc. Time, two hours per week.

Second year, Courses I, II, III, IV. Drawing from ornamental forms in shaded outline, from the round with surface-shading, and further applications of the principles of perspective. Study of the head from the flat and the round, analysis of constructive forms and laws of perspective applicable thereto, tone values and shades and shadows as modified by reflected light. Time, two hours per week.

Course V, Mechanical. Alternate months of free-hand and mechanical drawing. The former includes selections from the work of the previous four courses to occupy the more limited amount of time; the latter, isometric and parallel perspective and the simpler details of the steam-engine and other mechanical devices. Time, two hours per week.

Third year, Courses I, II, III and IV. Elementary principles of theoretical perspective, with as much elementary descriptive geometry as is necessary for their intelligent discussion and comprehension. Application of these principles to practice. No text-book is used, but the instructors explain the principles which are immediately applied by the students in the classroom. Time, two hours per week.

Freshman class, Courses I, II, III and IV. Continuation of the subject of descriptive geometry, such as change of position by translation and rotation, problems involving the plane, simple cases of tangency and development, sections etc. Continuation of theoretical perspective, the laws of light and shades and shadows. Text-book, Woolf's Descriptive Geometry. Time, two hours per week.

Course V, Mechanical. Descriptive geometry with special reference to elevations, sections and plans of mechanical constructions. Theory of shades and shadows and application to mechanical design. Elements of practical machine drawing. Text-book, Woolf's Descriptive Geometry. Time, two hours per week.

Sophomore class, Course V, Mechanical. Advanced work in descriptive geometry, such as warped surfaces, intersections, envelopment, etc. Shades and shadows in tinted drawings made from models, as valves, parts of steam-engine, etc. Text-book, Woolf's Descriptive Geometry. Time, one hour per week.

Junior year, Course V, Mechanical. Construction of mechanical curves: cycloid, epicycloid, volute, involute, and their application to gears, etc.

Sketches of the steam-engine drawn in detail, from which, subsequently, finished drawings are made. Practice in flat-washing in application to machine and architectural drawing; construction of simpler mechanisms as hydrants, steam-drills, etc., and finishing with the steam-engine, gas-engine and Corliss engine. Time, three hours per week.

Courses I, II, III and IV. This is an optional course. The students draw from the cast, either ornaments or organic forms, according to individual ability; they shade in charcoal, crayons, etc. Time, two hours per week.

Senior class. The Professor delivers lectures on Æsthetics and the History of Art to the entire Senior class once a week. Recitations on these lectures are heard, and essays on Art, Æsthetics and cognate subjects are required of the students pursuing the literary courses.

The casts belonging to this department are very fine, most of them having been taken from early molds. The collection contains many beautiful examples of the Phidian era, the most notable being a large number from the Frieze of the Parthenon, and a few of the best-preserved Metopes; the heroic statues of Theseus and Cephisus; a Caryatid from the Erechtheion. These copies of the Elgin Marbles were given by Charles M. Leupp, Esq. There are, furthermore, the busts of Jupiter from Otricoli, the Venus of Milo, the Venus of Arles, Juno, the Apollo Belvedere, the Belvedere Torso and examples of the work of Michael Angelo, Cellini and Thorwaldsen.

This department also makes use of a collection of about 275 photographs, the gift of the Class of '75, framed and hung in the halls of the College, illustrating the architecture and sculpture of the Greeks and Romans, early Christian and Renaissance painting in Italy and a number of the most noted buildings of all European countries. Each print is marked with the name, the date of production and the present location of the subject represented. East Indian architecture is likewise illustrated by a number of photographs purchased by the College.

THE WORK SHOP.

Connected with the College is a work-shop in which instruction is given in mechanical manipulation and the elements of mechanical theory. The shop is a room 118 feet by 35 feet, divided into four nearly equal parts. Of these, the first, the wood-working room, contains fifteen double benches, with closets and tools, for a class of thirty. The second, for forge and vise work, contains six forges, twenty anvils, two benches with fifteen vises, a bench for moulding and an assortment of forge and vise tools. It has accommodations for a class of thirty pupils. The third, or lathe room, contains twenty-six speed-lathes, for wood or metal turning, six engine lathes, a planer, a circular saw and two testing-machines, affording, like the others, accommodations for thirty students. The fourth contains a horizontal steam-engine of 25 horse-power, which drives the lathes and grind-stones, as well as the dynamos which furnish electric currents for experimental purposes and for the illumination of the shops. In an adjoining room are a Brown & Sharpe's Milling Machine, a gas-engine of 8 horse-power to take the place of the steam-engine when less power is required, and also a small vertical steam-engine, so arranged that it may be taken apart by students to allow of the study of its construction.

The course of study in the workshop extends over the last four years of Course V. The exercises and studies for the several years are as follows:

Freshman year—Theory and use of wood-working tools; properties, defects, treatment and preservation of timbers; use of the testing-machine in the testing of timber.

Sophomore year—Theory and use of metal-working tools; properties of metals and modes of working and testing them. Joining metals by riveting, soldering and brazing; use of the speed-lathe.

Junior year—Use of the engine lathe; screw-cutting, boring, turning, facing; measures of precision; scraping, finishing and fitting; study of the parts of the steam-engine from drawings, models, descriptions and examination of engines.

Senior year—Managing and testing of engines; physical and mechanical experiments.

MUSICAL COURSE.

A Musical Course, conducted by an instructor in music, is open to such members of the Senior class as desire to prepare themselves for examinations for teachers.

EXAMINATIONS AND TERMS OF ADVANCEMENT.

1. An examination is held at the end of each Collegiate year, commencing at least two weeks prior to Commencement Day. All the members of any class and all applicants for admission to the class next higher are, except as may be otherwise ordered by the Faculty or the Board of Trustees, examined at the same time in the same study, by written questions and by such oral examination as the Faculty may require.

2. An examination is also held at the close of the first term, conducted in accordance with the schedule of recitations and extending over a period of five days; namely, the Wednesday, Thursday and Friday following the close of the first term, and the succeeding Monday and Tuesday. It is confined to subjects that have been presented to the students during the first term.

3. No student is permitted to spend more than one year in either the Freshman, Sophomore, Junior or Senior class, unless for exceptional reasons the Board of Trustees may permit; and no student can remain in any class more than two years.

DISCIPLINE.

Every student shall conduct himself according to the rules of good manners, good morals and manly propriety; shall give punctual and constant attention to all his duties; shall use the property of the institution with care and economy, and restore the same when required. For violations of the rules of the College, students are demerited, formally admonished, or suspended by the President, or dismissed by vote of the Faculty. No student is demerited without receiving notice of the fact and the reason. A student who has received 100 demerit marks in one term, or 175 in one Academic year, must leave the College.

CERTIFICATES OF STANDING.

A student who has remained at College for at least one year, and has borne a good character, will, when leaving, receive a certificate stating the time he has attended and the studies he has pursued, provided he has satisfactorily accounted for all the books and other property entrusted to him; but no student shall receive such a certificate if he be dismissed for misconduct. If a student absents himself for two weeks without permission, his name is stricken from the rolls and he loses his right to a certificate of good standing on leaving the institution.

COLLEGE PERIODICALS.

1. Every periodical or paper published by students, and sold or distributed by them within the College, shall have printed upon it the name of the Managing Editor, who shall be a student.
2. No such periodical or paper shall be sold or distributed in this College until the President shall be satisfied that the foregoing regulation has been complied with.
3. It shall be the duty of the Managing Editor to exclude from the columns of the College publication controlled by him all discourteous remarks, and all remarks whatsoever on the officers or management of the College.
4. For any infraction of the preceding rules the Managing Editor shall be held responsible.
5. No periodical or paper, whose Managing Editor has violated the preceding rules, shall be sold or distributed in the College while he remains the Editor.

COLLEGE ATHLETICS.

A Committee of the Faculty determines the conditions on which athletic associations of the students may compete with like associations elsewhere. It must also approve of the method of raising funds.

THE LIBRARY.

The library of the College contains 36,876 volumes. These are distributed in classes as follows:

Theology.....	919	Spanish Literature.....	289
Philosophy.....	1,557	Italian "	90
Law.....	505	Latin "	826
Mathematics.....	566	Greek "	772
Physics.....	2,468	Classical Philology.....	224
Natural History.....	1,612	Literature in General.....	282
Medicine.....	318	Linguistics.....	928
History of Science.....	101	Fine Arts.....	1,354
History.....	8,046	Bibliography.....	273
Biography.....	2,225	Works of Reference.....	821
Voyages and Travels.....	1,322	Periodicals.....	4,574
English Literature.....	3,589	Unclassified.....	1,305
German "	941
French "	969	Total.....	36,876

Books may be taken from the library by the students as well as by the instructors; by the Alumni upon a deposit of $10; and by the teachers of the public schools of the city.

Purchases of books are made with the income of the Seth M. Grosvenor Fund of $30,000 and the Ephraim Holbrook Fund of $5000. Many volumes have been presented by authors, publishers and others, and the Board of Trustees annually appropriates funds for library purposes.

Medals and Prizes.

THE PELL MEDALS.

In 1849, Duncan C. Pell, by a gift of $500, established a gold medal, to be awarded annually to the student who shall rank highest in all the studies of the year taken together; and in 1856 the donor authorized the trustees of the fund to devote a portion of the income to the provision of a silver medal to be given to the student who shall rank second.

Trustees: The Chairman of the Board of Trustees, the President of the College. (One vacancy.)

THE CROMWELL MEDALS.

In 1850, Charles T. Cromwell, by a gift of $600, established a gold medal, to be awarded annually to the best scholar in History and Belles-Lettres, and in 1856 the donor authorized the provision of a silver medal for the second scholar.

Trustees: The President of the College, the Professor of History, Hon. Stuyvesant Fish.

THE WARD MEDALS.

In 1853, Augustus H. Ward established twenty bronze medals, to be awarded annually, each for one of the studies appointed, to the student of most proficiency therein, provided he shall have regularly pursued such study for not less than two months of the Collegiate year then closing; a student gaining one medal not to be precluded from obtaining others at the same time or subsequently.

The subjects are: Chemistry, Natural History, Natural Philosophy, Moral Philosophy, Political Science, English,

Greek, Latin, French, Spanish, German, Oratory, Composition, Logic, Astronomy, History, Drawing, Algebra and Geometry, Descriptive Geometry, Botany.

Trustees: The Board of Trustees of the College.

THE RIGGS MEDALS.

In 1864, Elisha Riggs, by a gift of $1000, established a gold medal, to be annually awarded to the author of the best English Prose Composition in the Senior class, and a gold medal to be awarded to the author of the best English Prose Composition in the Junior class; any surplus of income to be applied by the trustees to further, in any way they may think best, the design of the donor to stimulate the cultivation of English Composition in the College of the City of New York. The competition is open to all who have received not less than four-fifths of the maximum in English Composition from the beginning of the Junior year. The names of the competitors must be handed to the President on or before the second Monday in February. The essays must be handed in on the last day of recitations in May.

Trustees: The President of the College, the Professor of History, the Professor of the English Language and Literature.

THE CLAFLIN MEDALS.

In 1871, John Claflin, by a gift of $1250, established two gold and two silver medals, to be awarded as follows:

A gold medal to the student of the Senior class who shall pass the best competitive examination in Greek; a gold medal to the student of the Junior class who shall pass the best competitive examination in Latin; a silver medal to the student of the Freshman class concerning whom the Professor of Greek shall certify that he has made the greatest proficiency in that department; and a silver medal to that student of the Freshman class who shall receive a corresponding certificate from the Professor of Latin.

Trustees: The President of the College, James P. Lowrey, Esq.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES PRIZE FOR DECLAMATION.

In 1852, the President of the Board of Education established a prize for excellence in public speaking. This is continued by the present Board of Trustees.

The six speakers contending for this prize are chosen by their classmates, two from each of the three higher classes. Only such students are eligible as have not received fifty demerit marks during the first term or twenty-five during the second term preceding the day of the election. They speak selected pieces. The prize is awarded by a committee of gentlemen having no relation to the College and selected by the Trustees.

THE ROEMER PRIZE FOR DECLAMATION.

For thirty-eight years the late Professor Roemer provided anonymously a prize for the best declamation of poetry. In recognition of this fact and in honor of his memory and name, the ROEMER PRIZE was established by the officers of the College and several graduates. The trustees of the fund (of $300) are the Chairman of the Executive Committee, the President of the Associated Alumni, and Russell Sturgis, Ph.D. The competitors are a Senior, a Junior and a Sophomore, selected from and by their several classes, in the same manner as the competitors for the prize of the President of the Board of Education. The declamations are delivered on the same occasion and judged by the same judges.

THE DRUMMOND PRIZE FOR DECLAMATION.

In 1901, Mr. Lewis E. Drummond, of the Class of 1888, offered a prose oratory prize, in memory of Mrs. Jane L. M. Drummond, Normal College, Class of 1890, to be awarded to the student who stands second in the competition for the Trustees Prize in June. The award, consisting of books of the value of twenty dollars, is annually provided for by the donor.

THE DRUMMOND HISTORY PRIZE.

In 1903, Mr. Drummond offered a prize, consisting of a gold medal, to be awarded to that student of the Junior class who submits the best essay on local self-government in America, or a given phase of it, treated mainly with reference to its historical development. The topic is given out by the Professor of History. A committee of three, including the Professor and two other instructors of the department, awards the prize.

THE KELLY PRIZES.

In 1868, James Kelly, by a gift of $1000, established two prizes. One prize is given to the best debater in the Literary Societies; three contestants being chosen by the Clonian Society, and three by the Phrenocosmian. The President of the Board of Trustees selects the subject and submits it to the Faculty for approval. The debate is held in the College Chapel during the week preceding Commencement.

The other prize is given to the member of either society who shall write the best critique on some work of English literature. The subject is announced before the Christmas vacation, and the essays must be handed in on the first Monday in June.

The judges of the debate are selected by the President of the Board of Trustees; the judges of the essays are the President of the College, the Professor of History and the Professor of the English Language and Literature.

THE BELDEN PRIZES.

In 1883, William Belden, by a gift of $1000, established prizes for excellence in Pure Mathematics. The nature of the prizes and the terms of their award are to be determined from time to time by the President of the College and the Professor of Pure Mathematics.

At present the following prizes are to be awarded annually on Commencement day, in the Junior and Sophomore classes:

1. A gold medal to the student in each class of greatest proficiency in the studies of the department during the year. This greatest proficiency is to be determined either from the marks from recitations and on examinations, or by a special competitive examination, as may in each case seem best to the trustees of the prize.

2. A silver medal to any other student, in either class, whose aggregate marks for recitations and on examinations shall reach ninety-five per cent. of the maximum.

Trustees: The President of the College, the Professor of Pure Mathematics.

THE F. W. DEVOE & CO. PRIZES.

In 1885, F. W. Devoe & Co. offered two prizes, each to consist of a set of drawing instruments of the value of twenty-five dollars, for proficiency in the Mechanical Arts. They are to be awarded by a committee, consisting of the President of the College, the Chairman of the Board of Trustees and the Professor of Physics, to the student of greatest merit, in the first and second years, respectively, of the Work-shop Course. Students of the Classical and Scientific Courses may compete. The merits of the competitors are to be judged by the excellence and quickness of their work, and by the improvement made by them during the year.

THE KETCHUM PRIZES.

In May, 1891, Colonel Alexander P. Ketchum, of the Class of 1858, offered four prizes, to be awarded to those students of the Senior and Junior classes giving the best written evidence of proficiency in Philosophy and Political Economy at the June examinations in those subjects. The prizes are provided for annually by the donor, and the award is made by the Professor of Moral and Intellectual Philosophy.

THE BENNETT PRIZE IN POLITICAL SCIENCE.

James Gordon Bennett, on May 11, 1893, gave $1000 to the Trustees of the College for the endowment of an annual prize under the following terms:

"The amount to be invested and kept invested, and the income thereof, or a medal of equal value, to be given annually upon Commencement day to the undergraduate member of the Senior class who shall have taken the prescribed course of the institution in Political Science and English Literature, and who shall have prepared the best essay in English prose upon some subject of American governmental domestic or foreign policy of contemporaneous interest."

"The subjects to be selected and announced, the rules of competition formulated and the decision rendered by the Faculty of the College."

THE SERENA MASON CARNES PRIZE.

The Board of Trustees of the College of the City of New York accepted a prize of one hundred dollars, to be known as the SERENA MASON CARNES PRIZE, given by Mr. Mason Carnes, for the best translation, by students of the College above the Freshman class, of one or more scenes chosen by the Professors of the French and German Languages and Literatures and the Instructor in Spanish.

THE RALPH WEINBERG MEMORIAL PRIZE.

In 1898, Miriam Richter, by a gift of $500, established an annual prize to be awarded to that student of the Senior class who shall present for delivery upon the Chapel stage the best composition upon a topic approved by the Professor of the English Language and Literature. This prize is to be known as the Ralph Weinberg Memorial Prize.

Trustees: The President of the College, The Professor of History and the Professor of the English Language and Literature.

PRIZES OF PATRIOTIC SOCIETIES.

The Society of the "Sons of the Revolution in the State of New York" and the National Society of the "Sons of the American Revolution" offer prizes to members of the Junior and Senior classes for the best essay on some topic connected with the Revolutionary period. The three prizes of the former Society—gold, silver and bronze medals—are awarded in a competition with students of other colleges in the State.

CLASSICAL SCHOLARSHIPS.

This College being, through the action of its officers and alumni, associated with eighteen of the leading universities and colleges in the United States, in support of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens, the school is open to any properly qualified graduate of this College. Those desiring to avail themselves of this privilege should apply to the Professor of Greek for information and a certificate of scholarship.

DEGREES.

The degree of Bachelor of Arts is conferred on those students who have completed Courses I, II and III; that of Bachelor of Sciences on those who have completed Courses IV and V.

A Bachelor of Arts or of Sciences may be recommended for the degree of Master of Arts or of Sciences on conditions determined by the Faculty and Board of Trustees.

STUDENTS' AID FUND.

In 1857, the Associate Alumni established a fund for the purpose of assisting such students as might otherwise find difficulty in completing their Collegiate course. This fund is maintained by contributions from the alumni. The management of the fund is committed to five trustees, who loan, without interest, such sums as they think proper to deserving students; and neither the names of those to whom the loans are made, nor the amounts of the loans, are known to any but the trustees and the auditors of the fund.

The following are the present trustees, to whom application may be made:

FERDINAND SHACK.....	56 Wall Street.
EVERETT P. WHEELER, '56.....	21 State Street.
JOHN R. SIM, '68.....	At the College.
JOHN HARDY, '53.....	265 Broadway.
ALFRED G. COMPTON, '53.....	At the College.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

Three Literary Societies, the Clonian, the Phrenocosmian and the City College Debating Society, are open to the students. They are devoted to the cultivation of the arts of composition, oratory and debate, and the promotion of friendly intercourse between students.

Weekly meetings are held during the Collegiate year. The exercises consist of the reading of an essay and a selection, the delivery of a declamation or an oration, and the debate of a question previously announced. At intervals a magazine is read, to which the members contribute, anonymously, articles of a lighter nature than the essays. The Clonian library, containing many valuable books, and the Phrenocosmian reading-room, where may be found the leading magazines and periodicals of the day, are in two of the side rooms of the Chapel, and are open to the members every afternoon of the College week. The third Society, or Society of the College of the City of New York, was organized in 1903.

Commencement Honors.

The Commencement of the College is held on the fortieth Thursday after the opening of the first term. The precedence of the Honor-men is determined as follows:

1. The orators at Commencement shall be the first six members of the graduating class in rank, counting from the beginning of the Freshman year to the close of the Senior year.
2. The Valedictory oration shall be the first honor, and the Salutatory shall be the second; the remaining honorary orations shall be numbered according to the rank of the students.
3. If any of these Honor-men, except the Valedictorian and the Salutatorian, have not received 85 per cent. in Oratory (composition and delivery) during the Senior year, his name shall be entered on the programme and marked excused.
4. Each Honor-man, not otherwise disqualified, shall deliver an original oration on Commencement, provided that in the opinion of the President and the Professor of the English Language and Literature the merits of the composition warrant public presentation; otherwise he shall not speak at Commencement, but shall be marked excused on the programme.
5. No oration shall be delivered at Commencement unless the rehearsal of it shall have been satisfactory.
6. In case any Honor-man is debarred from speaking by rule 3 or 4, his place shall be taken by some other student of the graduating class, selected by the Faculty, for excellence in ~~oratory~~, from a list of three recommended by the Instructor in Elocution; but no student shall be so chosen unless he shall have attained 75 per cent. of the maximum of marks for the College course. The orations of such substitutes shall be designated on the programme as dissertations.

COMMENCEMENT.

THE FREE ACADEMY.

THE College of the City of New York, originally entitled "The Free Academy," was established under the auspices of the Board of Education of the city, holding office in 1846-47. The grounds for this action are indicated in the following representation made in the annual report of the body for that year: "It has long been a source of regret to many citizens entertaining a lively interest in the cause of public education, that there exists in our city no institution of a higher grade for the gratuitous instruction of those pupils who have completed their primary education in our Common Schools."

The members of this Board constituted the founders of the College, and among them Mr. Townsend Harris, its President at that period, appears as the most prominent mover. The first official step was taken at a meeting held July 27, 1846, when, upon a resolution offered by Mr. Harris, a committee was appointed to consider the propriety of applying for the appropriation of a portion of the Literature Fund of the State, created to encourage the founding of academies and classical schools, toward the support of "a High School or College" in this city for the benefit of those scholars who desired to continue their studies beyond the public school curriculum. On January 20, 1847, this committee, with the President as Chairman, reported in favor of "a Free College or Academy," and upon its recommendation the Board voted to memorialize the Legislature of the State for the establishment of the proposed institution. The committee appointed to draft the memorial consisted of President Harris, Mr. Joseph S. Bosworth and

Mr. James L. Mason. In response to this appeal, the Legislature, by Act of May 7, 1847, empowered the Board of Education to establish the institution, purchase a site therefor, erect a suitable building or buildings, and assume full control and direction. Its name, under the Act, was to be the Free Academy, and its purpose was declared to be the extension of "the benefits of education gratuitously to persons who have been pupils in the common schools of the said City and County of New York." By requirement of the same Act, the question whether such Academy should be founded was submitted in the first instance to the suffrage of the people of the city at the School and Judicial election, held on the first Monday of June, 1847, when 19,404 votes were cast in the affirmative and 3,409 in the negative.

A building for the Academy, the one now occupied by the College, was begun in November, 1847, and completed in the following year. On January 15, 1849, the first entrance examination was held—the first class admitted containing one hundred and forty-three students. On January 27th following, the formal opening exercises were held in the building. Addresses were made on the occasion by Robert Kelly, Esq., then President of the Board of Education, the Hon. William F. Havemeyer, Mayor of the city, and Horace Webster, LL.D., the Principal. Officers and instructors were also presented as "the first faculty of the Free Academy."

In the year 1854 the Legislature advanced the grade and privileges of the institution by authorizing the Board to confer upon its graduates the usual collegiate degrees and diplomas in the arts and sciences.

CHANGE OF NAME—THE COLLEGE.

The growth of the Academy during the first sixteen years and the collegiate character of its work determined the Board of Education to secure a change in its name, and by Act of the Legislature of March 30, 1866, the institution was erected into a separate and distinct organization and body corporate, to be known as "The College of the City of New York." The Act invested it with the powers and privileges of a college, pursuant to the Revised Statutes of the State, rendering it subject to the same provisions governing other colleges in the State, and to the visitation of the Regents of the University.

In the year 1882 the Legislature repealed so much of the statutes relating to the College as had made one year's attendance at the public schools of the city a requisite for admission, thus opening the College to all young men of the city of proper age and sufficient preparation.

GOVERNMENT.

From 1847 until 1866 the affairs of the Free Academy were under the management of an annually appointed Executive Committee of the Board of Education. By the Act of March 30, 1866, the Board, as such, ceased to be the governing body, but its members remained, ex officio, the Trustees of the College, subject to the duties required of the trustees of all colleges in the State. These Trustees also committed the general direction of the College to an Executive Committee.

In May, 1900, by amendment of the foregoing provisions, an Act of the Legislature made a further change in the government of the institution by creating a new and distinct Board of Trustees, composed of nine members, to be appointed by the Mayor of the city, charged with the sole care and control of the College. Of this Board, the President of the Board of Education is, ex officio, an additional member. The appointive members serve for nine years each.

The College,

1903-1904.

THE BUILDINGS.

The main building of the College is located at the corner of Twenty-third Street and Lexington Avenue. Recitations are also conducted in two "Annexes" in the immediate vicinity. The new College site, where ample buildings are in process of construction, includes the grounds on St. Nicholas Heights east of Amsterdam Avenue between One Hundred and Thirty-eighth and One Hundred and Fortieth Streets.

INSTRUCTION.

Instruction in the College is free; so is the use of text and library books, and apparatus. Attendance on at least twenty recitations or lectures a week is required.

TERMS AND VACATIONS.

The College year begins on the Thursday following the second Monday of September and closes on the fortieth Thursday thereafter. It is divided into two terms. The first term closes on the second Friday of January; the second term begins on the fourth Monday of January. Each is followed by an examination.

There are three vacations—the Summer vacation, from the day after Commencement in June to the Thursday after the second Monday in September; the Winter vacation, from the 25th day of December to the 2d day of January, inclusive, and the Spring vacation, the week following Good Friday. There are no College exercises on legal holidays nor on any Friday immediately following a legal holiday.

The dates for the terms, vacations and College functions for the current year, will be found in the Calendar at the end of the Register.

REQUISITES FOR ADMISSION.

Connected with the College is an Academic or Preparatory Department with a course of three years, which is substantially the same as that of the corresponding years in the High Schools of the city. Requisites for admission into this Department are as follows:

I. PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT.

Graduates of the Public Schools are admitted to the first preparatory year, known as Sub-Freshman C, without examination, on presenting the regular certificate of graduation required by the Board of Education. Other applicants must pass an examination, satisfactory to the Faculty, in Spelling, English Grammar, Arithmetic, Geography, History of the United States and the Elements of Industrial Drawing. Those who enter, either by examinations or certificate, are admitted on probation for eight weeks, at the end of which period their names are regularly entered on the rolls of the College, provided that in the interval they have maintained the required standing.

Applicants for admission to the second and third year preparatory classes, B and A, are required to pass the regular examinations held in the College for advancement to those classes, or such other examinations as may be ordered by the Board of Trustees. The subjects taught and the text-books used in each class are presented in the tables of the curriculum and in the department statements following. Candidates from the High Schools of the city are admitted to the corresponding classes of the preparatory department on certificate of the principals.

II. COLLEGIATE DEPARTMENT.

Requisites for admission to the College Classes are as follows:

The students of the third year preparatory, A, are advanced to the Freshman class on passing the final examinations in June in their department. Graduates from the High Schools of the city are admitted to this class on the certificate of the principals that they have been prepared on the subjects required. All other candidates must be examined at the same time with the third year students or at such other time as may be directed.

Applicants for admission to the Sophomore, Junior and Senior classes may be admitted upon presenting satisfactory papers of dismissal from the college previously attended by them, and passing an examination the same as or equivalent to that which shall have been required from students of the College. The branches pursued and the books used by each class are indicated in the several department statements and schedules. No candidate is admitted later than the beginning of the Senior year.

COURSES OF STUDY.

There are five Courses of Study continuous throughout the three Academic or preparatory years and the four Collegiate years. These courses are:

- I. Language Course, Classical.
- II. Language Course, Latin and French.
- III. Language Course, Modern.
- IV. Scientific Course.
- V. Scientific Course, Mechanical.

Every student shall, upon entering the College, elect what course he will follow, subject to such approval by the father of the student, or otherwise, as the President of the College shall direct. Students may thereafter be transferred from one course to another in such manner and upon such conditions as may be prescribed by the Faculty.

As the courses are all intended to promote a sound general culture, each department is represented in each course either by prescribed or elective work. On the other hand, the courses are so arranged as to offer to the student a reasonable opportunity to follow selected lines of study. While emphasis is laid in each course upon a given group of studies, the student is enabled to pursue some branches lying outside of that group. Thus, in the Classical Course, where special prominence is given to Latin and Greek, the student must undertake one modern language and may study two. In the Scientific Courses he must pursue certain liberal studies as well as those of a strictly scientific character. In the Junior and Senior years optional branches are open to him as specified in the curriculum.

The Mechanical Course differs from the Scientific Course proper in making the applications of mechanical science prominent and requiring practice in the workshop and mechanical laboratories.

While in the main the student has an average of twenty hours a week of college work, the total sometimes rises to twenty-one or twenty-two owing to laboratory work or hours assigned to sight reading in the ancient and modern languages. Students in the Language Courses may devote some time in the afternoon to the workshop, provided such additional time does not interfere with their regular work or the regulations of the Faculty.

The details of the curriculum and the studies pursued in each department are given in the pages immediately following:

DEPARTMENTS OF STUDY.

ENGLISH LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

In the preparatory years, the work of the English department is the same in all five courses.

PREPARATORY.

First Year (C). All Courses. 4 hours.

The students receive a thorough training in English grammar and in the structure of the English sentence. They study critically about four hundred pages of prose and verse by American authors, and write short fortnightly themes. The text-books used are Kittredge and Arnold's The Mother Tongue, Part II, Carpenter's Elements of Rhetoric, First High School Course, and Masterpieces of American Literature.

Second Year (B). All Courses. 2 hours.

The rhetorical study includes vocabulary, qualities of style, the paragraph and the development of the whole composition. In literature about four hundred pages of prose and verse by British authors are critically analyzed. Short fortnightly themes are written. Carpenter's Elements, First High School Course, and Masterpieces of British Literature are the books used.

Third Year (A). All Courses. 2 hours.

Macaulay's Warren Hastings, and Johnson, Burke's Speech on Conciliation and Shakespeare's Julius Caesar and Macbeth are critically studied. About six hundred pages of home reading are required. Essays are written and corrected in personal conferences with the instructors.

COLLEGIATE.

For the college classes the work of the department is the same in all five courses except in the Junior year.

Freshman Class. All Courses. 2 hours.

The history of English literature is studied, chiefly in connection with the development of the poetry. Moreover, the students are required to read critically all the pieces in Pancoast's volume, and to comprehend fully all the allusions. Essays are written, and discussed in personal conferences with the instructors. Stopford Brooke's English Literature, Pancoast's Standard English Poems, Gayley's Classic Myths in English Literature, are the text-books.

Sophomore Class. All Courses. 2 hours.

The historical development of English prose is considered, and the style of the best modern writers analyzed. Attention is then given to argumentative composition and the construction of briefs. Essays, briefs and arguments are written, and discussed in personal conferences with the instructors. The books for the year are Genung's Rhetoric and Handbook of Rhetorical Analysis, Baker's Principles of Argumentation and Pancoast's Standard English Prose.

Junior Class. Courses I, II, III, IV. 2 hours.

The text-books are Wendell's William Shakespeare, Shakespeare's Midsummer Night's Dream, Henry V, As You Like It, Hamlet, King Lear, The Tempest. These plays are studied chiefly from the standpoint of dramatic construction, character portrayal and poetic beauty. The linguistic element, while not overlooked, is subordinated to the artistic. In connection with the dramas, Shakespeare's life and times are also considered. Essays are written and personal conferences on composition are held.

Course V.

1 hour.

Similar work is done, but only half the amount.

Senior Class. Elective in all Courses. 2 hours.

The first term is devoted to the poetry of the nineteenth century, with the fourth volume of Ward's English Poets as the text-book. In the second term Tennyson is studied, the text-book being the complete works of the poet in either the Globe or the Cambridge edition. Lectures are given, poems are discussed, both in minute detail and in their more general relations, and the students write a considerable number of critical essays.

LATIN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

The Latin Course in the preparatory classes is substantially the same as that of the Classical Course in the New York High Schools.

PREPARATORY.

First Year (C). Courses I, II. 5 hours.

Bennett's or Leighton's Latin Lessons, entire, and Allen and Greenough's Latin Grammar are the text-books studied. This Grammar is retained throughout the entire course, the student by this means gradually becoming thoroughly familiar with his grammar.

Second Year (B). Courses I, II. 4 hours.

Four or five books of Cæsar's Gallic War are read. Weekly Latin Prose Exercises, based on the student's work in Cæsar, are required. Exercises in Latin Prose Composition run parallel with the study of the Latin authors throughout the entire Latin Course in the preparatory as well as in the Collegiate classes.

Third Year (C). Courses I, II. 6 hours.

Cicero is the chief author read in the third year. Five or six of his orations, such as the Catilinarian orations, the Pro Archive, Pro Legaris, Pro Lege Manilia, or the Philippus are carefully gone through, attention being paid not only to the syntax, but also to the historical, rhetorical and other features suggested by the text. Two of the six hours are allotted to sight reading and are devoted to the reading of Sallust's Bellum Catilinae, as an aid to the understanding of Cicero's orations against Catiline. Latin Prose Composition based on Cicero.

COLLEGIATE.

Freshman Class. Courses I, II. 4 hours.

Vergil's Aeneid (four or five books) is the work assigned to the Freshmen. Sight reading is continued two hours per week, Post's Latin at Sight being the text-book. Latin Prose Composition.

Sophomore Class. Course I. 4 hours.

In the First term, Livy (two books) is the author regularly studied, with home preparation. For sight reading, two hours, Cicero's treatises, De Amicitia and De Senectute, have been selected.

The Odes and Epodes of Horace form the subject of prepared study during the second term of the Sophomore year, while the Tenth Book of Quintilian's Institutiones is read at sight. Latin Prose Composition.

Course II. 3 hours.

The same as Course I. As the curriculum provides one hour less of required study, proportionately less Livy and Horace is read.

Courses IV, V. 3 hours.

In these courses students are offered an option between French, German, Spanish or Latin. Those electing Latin begin the study with the same text-books used by Preparatory Class C, but proceed more rapidly. Accordingly Bennett's Latin Lessons and Allen and Greenough's Latin Grammar are completed and Cæsar's Gallic War is begun.

Junior Year. Course I. 3 hours.

The study of Horace is continued in the Junior year: the first term being devoted to his Satires and Epistles. Roman manners and customs are studied in connection with this author. A selection from Cicero's Letters is read at sight, one hour per week. In the second term the Juniors study the Annals of Tacitus and read a play of Terence at sight. Latin Prose Composition.

Course II. 4 hours.

Two hours' prepared work, Latin or Greek. Two hours' sight reading required. This course differs from Course I in prescribing more sight reading.

Course III. 3 hours.

An option is offered between Latin and Greek. In Latin an elementary course is begun with Bennett's Latin Lessons and Allen and Greenough's Latin Grammar, which are completed. Cæsar's Gallic War is begun.

Courses IV, V. 3 hours.

These courses are a continuation of the Sophomore Elementary Course begun in the Sophomore Class. The authors read are two books of Cæsar's Gallic War, and two orations of Cicero (the first against Catiline and the Pro Archia). The grammar is reviewed. Latin Prose Composition.

Senior Year. Course I. Elective. 3 hours.
 Prescribed. 2 hours.

The Elective Course comprises Cicero's De Natura Deorum, which is intended to help the Seniors in their study of the history of philosophy, and during the second term Juvenal's Satires. With the latter is associated a continuation of the study of Roman manners and customs begun in the Junior year. The obligatory Latin in the Senior year consists of a play of Plautus in the first term and of selections from the Latin Poets (Crowell's) in the second, all read at sight. The Latin poets read are selections from Catullus, Propertius, Tibullus and Ovid, enabling the students to take a rapid survey of the Latin elegiac poets.

Course II. Elective	3 hours.
Prescribed.	2 hours.

The studies are practically identical with Course I.

Course III.	3 hours.
--------------------	-----------------

Two books of Cæsar's Gallic War, an oration of Cicero, and a book of Vergil's Aenid.

Courses IV, V.	2 hours.
-----------------------	-----------------

Two books, Vergil's Aenid, Cicero's De Senectute or De Amicitia and selections from Horace's Odes and Satires.

GREEK LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

The study of the Greek Language and Literature begins with the second year of the Preparatory and continues thereafter until the end of the College Course, as follows:

PREPARATORY.

Second Year (B).	Course I.	5 hours.
-------------------------	------------------	-----------------

The students pursue the simultaneous study of the orthography, etymology and syntax and their exemplification in easy Attic prose. They read, translate and analyze constructions and translate English into Attic Greek. The text-book is White's First Greek Book, which is finished entire.

Third Year. (A).	Course I.	4 hours.
-------------------------	------------------	-----------------

The class reads Xenophon's Anabasis and has one exercise weekly in Greek Prose Composition. Attention is constantly directed to historical and geographical allusions, and the difference between English and Greek idioms. The text-books are Goodwin's Greek Grammar, Arnold's Greek Prose Composition and White's and Goodwin's Xenophon's Anabasis.

COLLEGIATE.

Freshman Class. Course I. 4 hours.

Of which three hours are allotted to work requiring preparation and one hour to sight reading.

During the first term the required work is selections from Xenophon's Memorabilia (Winans'). There is also one exercise weekly in Greek Prose Composition. The text-book is Arnold's Prose. Goodwin's Greek Grammar is used as a book of reference. Students are supplied with dictionaries. In sight reading texts of Xenophon's Hellenica are used.

During the second term, selections from Demosthenes on the Crown are read. The period of Demosthenes and the events leading up to the oration are explained. One exercise weekly in Greek Prose, as before, and grammar as work of reference. In sight reading the oration of Aeschines against Ktesiphon is used and comparisons made between the two orations.

Sophomore Class. Course I. 5 hours.

Of which three are allotted to work requiring preparation and two to sight reading. First Term: Thucydides (selections) partly narrative and partly the orations. Comparison is made with Xenophon. One exercise weekly in Greek Prose Composition. In sight reading selections from Herodotus. Second Term: Homer (selections from Iliad or Odyssey). The peculiarities of dialect and syntax are dwelt on. The manners and customs, art and religion of the Homeric period are discussed. The heroic hexameter, its rhythm and caesura are compared with that of Vergil. Prosody is studied and one exercise weekly in Greek Prose composition. In sight reading selections are read from Herodotus.

Junior Class. Course I. 4 hours.

Of which two are allotted to prepared work and two to sight reading. First Term: Greek Tragedy—one or more plays of Aeschylus or Sophocles or Euripides. Lectures are given on the origin and development of the drama. Analysis is made of the meters. One exercise weekly in Greek Prose. In sight reading, narrative portions of Thucydides, selections from orators, Lysias. Second Term: Comedies of Aristophanes. Origin and development of comedy explained. In sight reading, selections from Plato or Aristotle.

Senior Class. Course I. 2 hours.

Given entirely to sight reading. Both terms, selections from poets, lyric and elegiac, and especially the lately discovered works. Rapid review of historians, orators and philosophers.*

Senior and Junior Classes. Course II. 3 hours.

In Courses II. and III., the Juniors and Seniors have a choice between Latin and Greek.

As the students in Greek, to whom the present curriculum applies, will not reach the Junior Class until 1905, it does not seem essential to give the prospective course of study in the present Register.

For the students who elected the study of Greek in this course last year, and who had already studied Greek, a special course of study was framed, which will not exist hereafter.

Course III. 3 hours.

Students who may hereafter elect the study of Greek will begin with White's First Greek Book.

*The syllabus above given is at present in operation fully only in the lower three classes. It is approximately in force in the higher three classes, which had entered college before the present curriculum was established. It has not been thought important to specify in what particulars there is a difference at present.

FRENCH LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

The study of French is pursued in the three preparatory years in all the courses, the number of hours varying.

PREPARATORY.

First Year (C). Courses I., II. 2 hours.

In this course there is a choice between French and German. In French the students begin with a First book in French, (Charles A. Downer;) also Verbes Français, C. F.

Courses III., IV., V. 5 hours.

A first book in French, as above, and fifty pages of Thiers' Expedition de Bonaparte.

Second Year (B). Course I. 2 hours.

The first year's work is reviewed and forty new numbers of Chardenal Complete French Course taken up.

Course II. 5 hours.

A similar review is followed, with further work in Chardenal and the study of Expedition de Bonaparte.

Courses III., IV., V. 4 hours.

Additional numbers of Chardenal and fifty pages Contes, A. Daudet.

Third Year (A). Course I. 2 hours.

Reviews of previous work. Chardenal continued. Thiers. Expedition de Bonaparte en Egypt.

Course II. 4 hours.

Sarcey, Siège de Paris, and Contes, Daudet.

Course III. 6 hours.

Four hours' prescribed work. Demogeot, Vol. II. Two hours additional are devoted to sight reading, in Le Sage, Gil Blas.

Courses IV., V. 5 hours.

In the three hours' prescribed work, Siège de Paris is read. Two hours sight reading in Le Sage, Gil Blas.

Weekly written exercises are required of the students in each of the preparatory years.

COLLEGIATE.

In the College years the study of French is continued in longer and shorter courses.

Course II. 5 hours.

Three of the hours in prescribed work, Demogeot's Grands Ecrivains, eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. Two hours in sight reading, Le Sage, Gil Blas.

Course III. 4 hours.

Two hours prescribed work, Demogeot, Vol. II. Sight reading, two hours.

Courses IV., V. 1 hour.

Readings in Demogeot.

Students, now in their fifth year of French, read Contes, A. Daudet.

Courses II., III. 3 hours.

One hour prescribed, and two for sight reading. Demogeot and Sandcau. Mlle. de la Seiglièn.

Courses IV., V. 3 hours.

There is an option here between French, German, Spanish and Latin. The French studies are substantially the same as in Course I.

Junior Class. Course I. 3 hours.

There is an option here between French, German and Spanish. Sixth-year students go on with Demogeot in Grands Ecrivains, and the second-year students with Daudet and Thiers.

Course II. 3 hours.

One hour prescribed in which Corneille's Le Cid, five acts, is read. For sight reading the authors used are Lamartine, Scenes de la Révolution, and Labiche et Martins' Le Voyage de M. Perrichon.

Course III. 1 hour.

Sight reading in Lamartine.

Courses IV., V. 3 hours.

Students in their sixth year of French take up Corneille, Le Cid; Racine, Andromaque; Balzac, Eugenie Grandet. Second-year students the same as in Course I.

Senior Class. Course I. 3 hours.

Students who continue into the seventh year of French will take up such works as Le Cid, Andromaque, and Eugenie Grandet. Second-year students read Demogeot, Vol. II.

Courses II., III. Elective. 3 hours.
 Prescribed. 2 hours.

Sight reading, two hours. Authors: Dumas, La Question d'Argent, and Voltaire, Selected Letters.

In the elective hours V. Hugo, Hernaniff; Molière, Le Tartuffe; Racine, Athalie, etc., are read.

Courses IV., V. 2 hours.

Third year in French, Demogeot, Vol. II. Les grands écrivains français.

French written exercises are required of all the students on every fifth day.

GERMAN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

PREPARATORY.

First Year (C). Courses I., III., IV., V. 2 hours.

The first third of the American edition of Eysenbach's Grammar.

Second Year (B). Course I. 2 hours.

The second third of the grammar and half of Joynes' Reader are studied.

Course II. 2 hours.

The same as Courses I., III., IV., V., in the first year.

Courses III., IV., V. 5 hours.

Joynes' Reader is completed, poems are memorized, and the grammar is finished.

Third Year (A). Course I. 2 hours.

The same as the work of Courses III., IV., and V. in the second year.

Course II. 2 hours.

The work corresponds to that of Course I. in the second year.

Courses III., IV., V. 4 hours.

Review of grammar; stories by Hauff and Seidel are read. Composition (one-half of Harris).

COLLEGIATE.

Freshman Class. Course I. 2 hours.

Reading of selections from Hauff and Seidel; selected poems; occasional initiative exercises.

Course II. 2 hours.

Same as Course I. of third year.

Course III. 5 hours.

Three of the hours are devoted to prescribed work, and two to sight reading. Prescribed work: The difficult prose and poetry of Whitney's Reader; Harris completed. Sight reading: Hauff's Lichtenstein.

Courses IV., V. 4 hours.

Three hours prescribed, and one sight reading. In prescribed work the same as Course III., and one-half of sight reading of Course III.

Schiller's Tell, and a sketch of the Classical period of German Literature.

Course II. 3 hours.

Whitney's Reader is studied; selections from Harris.

Course III. 3 hours.

One hour prescribed, and two hours' sight reading. Selections from Freytag and Lessing; oral and written exercises based on texts read at sight; grammar reviewed.

Courses IV., V. 3 hours.

Same as Course III. Beginners take Eysenbach (shorter American edition) and portions of Joynes' Reader.

Junior Class. Course I. 3 hours.

Stoll's Historic Reader, Fulda's Talisman, Lessing's Nathan der Weise, and outline of the History of German Literature; conversation. For beginners.

Eysenbach (shorter course), and portions of Joynes' Reader.

Course II. 3 hours.

Schiller's Tell, a comedy of Benedix's; Harris completed.

Course III. 3 hours.

One hour prescribed, and two hours sight reading. Schiller's Wallenstein; Goethe's Iphigenie; Fulda's Talisman. Exercises based on reading. History of the Literature.

Courses IV., V. 3 hours.

The same as Course III.

Students in their second year of German, 3 hours. Joynes' Reader completed; Harris begun; Whitney's Reader.

Senior Class. Course I. 3 hours.

Goethe's Iphigenie; Schiller's Brant von Messina; Weine's prose. Composition and Conversation. History of Literature.

Course II. 3 hours.

Elective. Same as Course I.

Course III. 5 hours.

Two prescribed, and 3 hours elective. The prescribed work: Modern and recent prose and poetry; the elective, same as in Courses I. and II.

Courses IV., V. Prescribed. 2 hours.

Elective. 3 hours.

Some popular scientific book, such as Launhardt's Am sansenden Webstuhl der Zeit. Recent poetry. Occasional exercises in composition.

Dolcher Reader; initiative exercises; dramatic selections; history of the literature.

PREPARATORY.

The study of Spanish begins in the second year in Courses II. and III. It is offered as an optional with German.

Second Year (B). Courses II., III. 2 hours.

The rudiments of the language—grammar, reading, dictation and composition—are taken up and special importance attached to the acquisition of a correct pronunciation. Loiseaux's Spanish Grammar is the text-book.

Third Year (A). Courses II., III. 2 hours.

Review of the rudiments and continuation of the reading.

COLLEGIATE.

Freshman Class. Courses II., III. 2 hours.

Explanations and conversation are conducted as much as possible in the Spanish tongue, Loiseaux's Grammar and Reader being the guides.

Sophomore Class. Courses II., III. 3 hours.

The students continue along the same lines with more advanced text-books, including old Spanish comedies, Moratin, etc.

Courses IV., V. 3 hours.

There is an option here between French, German, Spanish and Latin. The work is the same as for beginners in the preparatory courses, but the students are able to advance more rapidly.

Junior Class. Course I. 3 hours.

An option is offered here between French, German and Spanish. For beginners in Spanish the work is about the same as in the preparatory years.

Courses II., III. 3 hours.

The study of Spanish literature, Don Quijote, is taken up.

Courses IV., V. 3 hours.

The instruction here corresponds to that given to the Sophomore class, Courses II. and III.

Senior Class. Course I. 3 hours.

Spanish literature, Don Quijote.

Courses II., III., IV. Elective. 3 hours.

Galdos' Marianela; Don Quijote.

Course V. Elective. 3 hours.

Prescribed.

2 hours.

For the prescribed, Galdos Marianela.

For the elective, Loiseaux's Spanish Grammar and Reader.

PREPARATORY.

First Year (C). All Courses. 2 hours.

With Myers' General History for a text-book, the students go through the Greek and Roman periods into mediæval history.

Second Year (B). All Courses. 2 hours.

Mediæval and Modern History. Text-books, General History continued and Myers' Modern Age taken up.

Third Year (A). All Courses. 2 hours.

English history, Coman and Kendall's, is studied more in detail. Reference books and lectures.

COLLEGIATE.

Sophomore Class. All Courses. 2 hours.

Text-book, first term. Robinson's History of Western Europe. Second term, reviews, special periods, civics.

Junior Class. Courses I., II., III. 1 hour.

Lecture course on American history. It includes a study of our constitutional beginnings in the Colonial period, involving the relation of American to English history; also, the period of the Revolution, with the origin of the Union and Constitution. Constitutional law is presented in brief.

Senior Class. All Courses. Elective. 3 hours.

First term: American constitutional and political history is continued through the Reconstruction period. Lectures and reference books, Hart's Formation of the Union, Burgess' The Middle Period. Second term: Comparative study of European Constitutions. Lectures and reference works, Wilson's The State, etc.

A department library is open to the students. A cabinet contains a collection of electroypes of nearly four hundred of the finest ancient coins in the British Museum, the obverse and the reverse of each coin being shown. The arrangement exhibits, chronologically and geographically, the history of coinage from 700 B. C. to the Christian Era. An additional section exhibits the most famous medallions struck from A. D. 1 to 217. The whole collection is the gift of the Class of '75.

Material consisting of valuable charts, manuscripts, prints and various relics, has been secured as the nucleus of an Historical Museum.

PHILOSOPHY.

COLLEGIALE.

The studies in this department are commenced in the Sophomore year. Logic, deductive and inductive, is then studied as a preparatory discipline. Text-book, Jevons.

Junior Class. Courses I., II., III. 3 hours.

The first term of the Junior year is devoted to the study of political science and international law. Text-books, Jenks and Pollock; Woolsey.

During the second term economic science is taken up, and special attention is given to questions of international trade, money and banking. Text-books, Andrews and White.

Courses IV., V. Elective. 3 hours.

Books, etc., as in other courses.

Senior Class. Courses I., II., III., IV. 3 hours.

In the Senior year psychology is studied during the first term. The treatment is descriptive, physiological and experimental. Text-books, Dewey and Shoup. The subjects of the second term are history of philosophy and ethics. Philosophical doctrines and systems of historic importance are examined, their evolution is traced and their implications are developed. Text-book, Weber.

Course V. Elective. 3 hours.

Same text-books as in other courses.

PEDAGOGICS ELECTIVE.

This course begins in the Sophomore year with the study of logic, as prescribed for all members of the class. Text-book, Jevons.

Junior Class. All Courses. 2 hours.

The year is devoted to psychology. Text-books: First term, Witmer and Ladd. Second term, Dexter and Garlick.

Senior Class. All Courses. 5 hours.

The Senior-year work is in the history of education and the principles and practice of teaching.

1st Term...	{ Methods and Principles	}	{ ROSENKRANZ, FITCH and GARLICK
				BROWNING
2d Term...	{ Methods and Principles	}	{ LAURIE, COLLAR and CROOK

PUBLIC SPEAKING.

COLLEGIATE.

The purpose of this department is the development of the art of public speaking.

As a proper foundation for work in public speaking, two years are devoted to a thorough study of elocution.

The work of Freshman year is divided under two heads; namely, Visible Expression, meaning those forms of expression which reach the mind through the medium of the eye; and Vocal Expression, meaning those forms of expression which reach the mind through the medium of the ear.

Freshman Year. All Courses. 1 hour.

First Term: Pantomime, Rhetorical Gesture, Declamation.

Lectures on Philosophy of Gesture. Text Book.
Bacon's Manual of Gesture.

Second Term: Breathing, Articulation, Pronunciation, Quality, Force, Pitch, Rate, Phrasing, Sentence Structure, Declamation.

Sophomore Year. All Courses. 1 hour.

Sophomore year the student applies the principles studied Freshman year, to general thought.

First Term: Prose Declamation.

Second Term: Poetry Declamation.

Junior Year. All Courses. 1 hour.

The student now begins practice in the expression of original thought. For this purpose debate is selected as the most natural field for investigation, the formation of independent judgment and its expression.

First Term: Lectures on Evidence; Debate.

Second Term: Lectures on Evidence; Debate.

Senior Year. All Courses. 1 hour.

First Term: Lectures on Methods of Preparation; Extemporaneous Speeches.

Second Term: Extemporaneous Speeches.

Note.—Classes are formed to give special help to those who, because of foreign birth or foreign influences, do not pronounce the English language well, and for those who have some impediment of speech, as lisping or stammering.

MATHEMATICS.

PREPARATORY.

First Year (C). All Courses. 5 hours.

All students in the Preparatory Department during the first year study Algebra through simultaneous quadratic equations. Text: Beman and Smith, or Wentworth.

Second Year (B). Courses I., II., III. 3 hours.

Plane Geometry. Exercises and problems. Text: Gore.

Courses IV., V. 5 hours.

Plane and Solid Geometry. Exercises and problems. Text: Davies' Legendre.

Third Year (A). Courses I., II., III. 3 hours.

Solid Geometry. Text: Gore.

Algebra: Review Quadratics; proceed through Progressions and Logarithms. Text: Beman and Smith.

Plane Trigonometry. Text: Crawley's Short Course.

Courses IV., V.

Plane and Spherical Trigonometry. Text: Crawley's Short Course.

Algebra, beginning at Permutations, continuing through series, and as much further as time will allow. Text: Hall and Knight.

COLLEGIATE.*

Freshman Class. Courses I., II., III. 2 hours.

Algebra, Quadratics, Progressions and Logarithms. Text: Fisher and Schwatt.

Plane Trigonometry. Text: Crawley's Short Course.

Analytical Geometry of Point and Line. Text: Wentworth.

Courses IV., V. 4 hours.

Analytical Geometry complete, as given in Wentworth.

Advanced Algebra. Text: Hall and Knight.

Sophomore Class. Courses I., II., III. 2 hours.

Plane Trigonometry completed. Text: Crawley's Short Course.

Analytical Geometry through the Hyperbola, with omissions. Text: Wentworth.

Courses IV., V.

4 hours.

Analytical Geometry: Equation of the Second Degree, Solid Geometry, Surfaces of Revolution, etc.
Text: Wentworth.

Calculus. Text: Osborne.

Junior Class. Courses I., II., III. Elective. 2 hours.

Analytical Geometry and Calculus, so far as permitted by previous preparation. Texts: Wentworth and Osborne.

Course IV. Elective. 3 hours.

Calculus. Text: Osborne.

Theory of Equations, if possible. Text: Barton.

Course V. Elective. 3 hours.

Substantially as in Course IV.

Differential Equations. Text: Murray.

*The lengthening of the courses has made certain re-adjustments necessary, which are not as yet complete, and which oblige different classes to study the same subjects this year at about the same time. It is probable that next year the sequence of subjects will be more nearly in accord with the order of the classes than they are at present, and that the College classes will then be doing the work for which they will have been fully prepared.

CHEMISTRY.

COLLEGIATE.

The curriculum provides several courses in Chemistry. Students of the Scientific Course receive instruction during four years. Those of the Language Courses have one year of prescribed and a year of elective work. Students of the Mechanical Course have two years of prescribed and a year of elective study. The time allotted is divided between lectures and laboratory, recitations being conducted during some of these hours.

The elective courses are preparatory to the special courses of technical and university schools.

Freshman Class. Course IV. 3 hours.

One hour lecture and two hours laboratory work. Elementary general Chemistry, Newth's Inorganic Chemistry as a text-book. Experimental work in the laboratory, with outlines of qualitative analysis. Clowes's Analytical Chemistry as text-book.

Sophomore Class. Course IV. 3 hours.

General Chemistry, advanced course. Continuation of qualitative analysis and introduction to quantitative analysis. Newth's Inorganic Chemistry and Clowes's Analytical Chemistry are used this year as text-books. One hour lecture, and two hours laboratory and recitation.

Course V. 2 hours.

General Chemistry. Lectures only. Bloxam's Chemistry as a text-book.

Junior Class. Courses I., II., III. 3 hours.

One hour lecture and two hours laboratory. This course is intended as a cultural course, and also leads to an Elective in the Senior year. The topics presented are therefore selected to that end. The laboratory work corresponds to the same idea. Remsen's College Chemistry and Curtman's Analytical Chemistry are in use as text-books.

Course IV. 4 hours.

Two hours lecture and two hours laboratory. Quantitative analysis, gravimetric and volumetric. The lectures continue inorganic chemistry, using Newth's Chemistry, and begin organic chemistry, with Bloxam as a text-book. Appleton's Quantitative and Volumetric Analysis is used in the laboratory, and Appleton's Organic Chemistry, also for the laboratory, in second term.

Course V. 2 hours.

The work of both hours is conducted in the laboratory, with recitations. This course is directed to topics essential to students taking a mechanical course, and discusses the chemistry of the metals particularly. Bloxam and Curtman as text-books.

Senior Class. Courses I., II., III. Elective. 3 hours.

This course follows the prescribed course of the Junior year and is especially intended for students requiring certificates for medical and technical schools and the Regents' examinations. It is on General Chemistry, with as much quantitative analytical work as can be introduced in such short hours. Remsen's College Chemistry has been used as a textbook. Curtman's Qualitative and Volumetric Analysis has been used in laboratory work. Lectures one hour; laboratory two hours.

Course IV. 5 hours.

One hour lecture and four hours laboratory. Completion of the four years' course. Chiefly organic chemistry with applied chemistry. Bloxam's Inorganic and Organic Chemistry. Appleton's Quantitative and Volumetric Analysis, and Appleton's Organic Chemistry as text-books. Electro-chemistry in second term.

Course V. Elective. 3 hours.

Special topics in chemistry as applied to mechanic arts. One hour lecture and two hours laboratory. Bloxam's Inorganic and Organic Chemistry as text-book, with special treatises on laboratory work.

The apparatus and collections of charts and specimens in the Department are well adapted to fully illustrate the topics presented. Numerous experiments are offered in demonstration of the important chemical laws and their applications. All the lectures are fully illustrated with experiments, charts and drawings on the slates.

PHYSICS.

The work in this department includes the study of Mechanics and Astronomy, and also work in the Mechanical Laboratories.

COLLEGIATE.

Freshman Class. All Courses. 3 hours.

Cooley's The Student's Manual, entire, with occasional illustrative lectures, two hours; Physical Laboratory, Cheston-Dean-Timmerman Manual, one hour.

Course V. Mechanical Laboratory. 4 hours.

Wood-working; text-book, Compton's First Lessons in Wood-working; one and a half terms. Metal working (forge and vise work); text-book, Compton's First Lessons in Metal-working; one-half term.

Sophomore Class. Courses I., II., III. 2 hours.

Hastings and Beach's General Physics, selections amounting to about 400 pages.

Courses IV. and V. 3 hours.

Hastings and Beach's General Physics, about 400 pages. (The selections are somewhat different from those taken in the other courses), 2 hours. Physical Laboratory, 1 hour.

Course V. Mechanical Laboratory. 4 hours.

Metal working (forge and vise work) concluded; first term. Speed-lathe and Pattern-making, second term. Text-book, Compton and Dr. Groodt, The Speed-lathe.

Junior Class. Courses I., II., III. Elective. 2 hours.

Advanced Physics; text-book and laboratory; or Astronomy; Young's Elements of Astronomy, with exercises on the use of instruments.

Courses IV. and V. 2 hours.

Physics: Bartlett's Acoustics and Optics, with lectures.

Course V. Mechanical Laboratory. 4 hours.

The Speed-lathe and Pattern-making concluded, one-half term. The Engine-lathe, Planer, and Milling-machine, one and a half terms.

Senior Class. Courses I., II., III. Elective. 3 hours.

Physics, text-book and laboratory; or Astronomy, Young's Elements of Astronomy, with exercises on the use of instruments, 2 hours.

Course IV. Elective. 3 hours.

Physics, text-book and laboratory; Astronomy, Young's Elements of Astronomy, with practical exercises, 3 hours.

Course V. 4 hours.

Astronomy: Bartlett's Spherical Astronomy and Young's Elements of Astronomy, with practical exercises; first term.

Mechanics: Bartlett's Analytical Mechanics, second term, 4 hours.

The Theory of Prime Movers: Rankin's Prime Movers and lectures, 4 hours, both terms.

Mechanical Laboratory: two terms, 4 hours, various physical measurements, the study of instruments used in tests, the testing of machines.

Connected with the Department of Physics are the Mechanical Laboratories in which instruction is given in mechanical manipulation and the elements of mechanical theory. The laboratories are contained in a room 118 feet by 35 feet, divided into four nearly equal parts. Of these, the first, the wood-working room, contains fifteen double benches, with closets and tools, for a class of thirty. The second, for forge and vise work, contains six forges, twenty anvils, two benches with fifteen vises, a bench for moulding and an assortment of forge and vise tools. It has accommodations for a class of thirty pupils. The third, or lathe room, contains twenty-six speed-lathes, for wood or metal turning, six engine lathes, a planer, a circular saw and two testing-machines, affording, like the others, accommodations for thirty students. The fourth contains a horizontal steam-engine of 25 horse-power, which drives the lathes and grindstones, as well as the dynamos which furnish electric currents for experimental purposes and for the illumination of the shops. In an adjoining room are a Brown & Sharpe's Milling Machine, a gas-engine of 8 horse-power to take the place of the steam-engine when less power is required, and also a small vertical steam-engine, so arranged that it may be taken apart by students to allow of the study of its construction.

The instruction in practical Astronomy is given in a temporary observatory on the roof of the East annex of the College. The instruments consist of a $4\frac{1}{4}$ -inch Equatorial, a portable Transit and Zenith Telescope, a portable Alt-Azimuth, together with Sextants, Barometers, Chronometer and Chronograph.

NATURAL HISTORY.

COLLEGIATE.

Freshman Class. All Courses. 2 hours.

Anatomy, Physiology and Hygiene. Lectures and Laboratory work.

In place of the above, candidates may present preparation based upon Furneaux's and Macy-Norris' Physiologies, or their equivalent, and evidence of laboratory work.

Instructor BRYAN.

Sophomore Class. Courses I., II., III. 2 hours.

Comparative Zoölogy. Text-books, Parker-Haswell and Jordan and Kellogg. Lectures and Laboratory.

This course is more elementary, including both invertebrate and vertebrate Zoölogy, with text and laboratory work on at least one example of each phylum.

Course IV. 3 hours.

Comparative Zoölogy. Text-books and Lectures as above. Laboratory work.

The complete course in invertebrate Zoölogy includes the entire text of the manuals named, together with laboratory work on several types of each phylum. For the character of the laboratory work see Parker and Haswell, text-book, or Marshall and Hurst's Practical Zoölogy.

Ass't Prof. SICKELS.
Instructor SUMNER.

Junior Class. Courses I., II., III. Elective. 2 hours.

Biology and Geology. Lectures and Laboratory.

Course IV. 4 hours.

Biology. Text-books, Parker-Haswell and Marshall-Hurst. Lectures and Laboratory.

This is a continuation of Sophomore Course IV.; includes Vertebrate Zoölogy, Anthropology, the history and philosophy of biology.

Prof. STRATFORD.

Course V. 2 hours.

Economic Natural History. Lectures and Laboratory.

Ass't Prof. SICKELS.

Senior Class. Courses I., II., III. Elective. 2 hours.

Biology and Geology. Lectures, etc.

Course IV. 4 hours.

Mineralogy, Geology, Paleontology, Text-book, Scott; reference works, Dana and Zittel. Lectures and Laboratory.

Prof. STRATFORD.

Biology and Geology. Lectures, etc.

All of the courses are essentially biological. The general relations of the inorganic and organic worlds, the phenomena of life and the structure and life history of typical plants and animals are taught. The time spent in the classroom is, as far as possible, given to laboratory work.

A good museum furnishes a great part of the material needed for illustration and study. Mounted specimens, photographs and dissections prepared in the College are being constantly added.

MUSEUM OF NATURAL HISTORY.

The collections contain about 12,000 specimens: 550 plants, 750 vertebrates, 3,000 invertebrates, 5,000 minerals and 2,400 rocks and fossils. The arrangement and cataloguing of the rocks and minerals of the City of New York, comprising nearly 2,500 specimens, is complete, and the collection is being used.

In addition to the material purchased by the College, the following gifts have been made:

1. Birds' Eggs, Collection of..... Bashford Dean, A.M., Ph.D.
2. Birds of State of New York } (100 Spec.)..... Louis A. Zerega, A.B., M.D.

DESCRIPTIVE GEOMETRY AND DRAWING.

This Department also includes Aesthetics and Mechanical Drawing.

PREPARATORY.

First Year (C). Courses I., II., III., IV. 2 hours.

The work of these four courses consists of practice in free-hand drawing from the flat and the round, in the elementary rules of perspective, and in surface-shading, whether by line or stump. The models range from the simple geometric to vases, and are drawn singly or in groups. The work is also graded according to the individual ability of the students.

Course V. 2 hours.

In this course the work is equally divided between free-hand and mechanical drawing. The former embraces drawing from various geometrical models, singly and in groups, and surface-shading; the latter embraces simple working sketches (3d angle method) introducing conventions employed in practice, sections and shading, lettering, rivets, screw-threads, bolts, nuts, etc.

Second Year (B). Courses I., II., III., IV. 2 hours.

Drawing from ornamental forms in shaded outline, from the round with surface-shading, and further applications of the principles of perspective. Study of the head from the flat and the round, analysis of constructive forms and laws of perspective applicable thereto, tone values and shades and shadows as modified by reflected light.

Course V. 2 hours.

Alternate months of free-hand and mechanical drawing. The former includes selections from the work of the previous four courses to occupy the more limited amount of time; the latter, isometric and parallel perspective and the simpler details of the steam-engine and other mechanical devices.

Third Year (A). Courses I., II., III., IV. 2 hours.

Elementary principles of theoretical perspective, with as much elementary descriptive geometry as is necessary for their intelligent discussion and comprehension. Application of these principles to practice. No text-book is used, but the instructors explain the principles which are immediately applied by the students in the classroom.

COLLEGIATE.

Freshman Class. Courses I., II., III., IV. 2 hours.

Continuation of the subject of descriptive geometry, such as change of position by translation and rotation, problems involving the plane, simple cases of tangency and development, sections, etc. Continuation of theoretical perspective, the laws of light and shades and shadows. Text-book, Woolf's Descriptive Geometry.

Course V. 2 hours.

Descriptive geometry with special reference to elevations, sections and plans of mechanical constructions. Theory of shades and shadows and application to mechanical design. Elements of practical machine drawing. Text-book, Woolf's Descriptive Geometry.

Sophomore Class. Course V. 1 hour.

Advanced work in descriptive geometry, such as warped surfaces, intersections, envelopment, etc. Shades and shadows in tinted drawings made from models, as valves, parts of steam-engine, etc.

Courses I., II., III., IV. Elective. 2 hours.

The students draw from the cast, either ornaments or organic forms, according to individual ability; they shade in charcoal, crayons, etc.

Junior Class. Course V. 3 hours.

Construction of mechanical curves: cycloid, epicycloid, volute, involute, and their application to gears, etc.

Sketches of the steam-engine drawn in detail, from which, subsequently, finished drawings are made. Practice in flat-washing in application to machine and architectural drawing; construction of simpler mechanisms as hydrants, steam-drills, etc., and finishing with the steam-engine, gas-engine and Corliss engine.

Senior Class. Courses I., II., III., IV. 2 hours.

The Professor delivers lectures on Aesthetics and the History of Art to the entire Senior class once a week. Recitations on these lectures are heard, and essays on Art, Aesthetics and cognate subjects are required of the students pursuing the literary courses.

Course V.

1 hour.

Lectures on Art, as above.

The casts belonging to this department are very fine, most of them having been taken from early molds. The collection contains many beautiful examples of the Phidian era, the most notable being a large number from the Frieze of the Parthenon, and a few of the best-preserved Metopes; the heroic statues of Theseus and Cephisus; a Caryatid from the Erechtheion. These copies of the Elgin Marbles were given by Charles M. Leupp, Esq. There are, furthermore, the busts of Jupiter from Otricoli, the Venus of Milo, the Venus of Arles, Juno, the Apollo Belvedere, the Belvedere Torso and examples of the work of Michael Angelo, Cellini and Thorwaldsen.

This department also makes use of a collection of about 275 photographs, the gift of the Class of '75, framed and hung in the halls of the College, illustrating the architecture and sculpture of the Greeks and Romans, early Christian and Renaissance painting in Italy, and a number of the most noted buildings of all European countries. Each print is marked with the name, the date of production and the present location of the subject represented. East Indian architecture is likewise illustrated by a number of photographs purchased by the College.

MUSICAL COURSE.

A Musical Course, conducted by an instructor in music, is open to such members of the Senior class as desire to prepare themselves for examinations for teachers.

EXAMINATIONS AND TERMS OF ADVANCEMENT.

1. An examination is held at the end of each Collegiate year, commencing at least two weeks prior to Commencement Day. All the members of any class and all applicants for admission to the class next higher are, except as may be otherwise ordered by the Faculty or the Board of Trustees, examined at the same time in the same study, by written questions and by such oral examination as the Faculty may require.

2. An examination is also held at the close of the first term, conducted in accordance with the schedule of recitations and extending over a period of five days; namely, the Wednesday, Thursday and Friday following the close of the first term, and the succeeding Monday and Tuesday. It is confined to subjects that have been presented to the students during the first term.

3. No student is permitted to spend more than one year in either the Freshman, Sophomore, Junior or Senior class, unless for exceptional reasons the Board of Trustees may permit; and no student can remain in any class more than two years.

DISCIPLINE.

Every student shall conduct himself according to the rules of good manners, good morals and manly propriety; shall give punctual and constant attention to all his duties; shall use the property of the institution with care and economy, and restore the same when required. For violations of the rules of the College, students are demerited, formally admonished, or suspended by the President, or dismissed by vote of the Faculty. No student is demerited without receiving notice of the fact and the reason. A student who has received 100 demerit marks in one term, or 175 in one Academic year, must leave the College.

CERTIFICATES OF STANDING.

A student who has remained at College for at least one year, and has borne a good character, will, when leaving, receive a certificate stating the time he has attended and the studies he has pursued, provided he has satisfactorily accounted for all the books and other property entrusted to him; but no student shall receive such a certificate if he be dismissed for misconduct. If a student absents himself for two weeks without permission, his name is stricken from the rolls and he loses his right to a certificate of good standing on leaving the institution.

COLLEGE PERIODICALS.

1. Every periodical or paper published by students, and sold or distributed by them within the College, shall have printed upon it the name of the Managing Editor, who shall be a student.
2. No such periodical or paper shall be sold or distributed in this College until the President shall be satisfied that the foregoing regulation has been complied with.
3. It shall be the duty of the Managing Editor to exclude from the columns of the College publication controlled by him all discourteous remarks, and all remarks whatsoever on the officers or management of the College.
4. For any infraction of the preceding rules the Managing Editor shall be held responsible.
5. No periodical or paper, whose Managing Editor has violated the preceding rules, shall be sold or distributed in the College while he remains the Editor.

COLLEGE ATHLETICS.

A Committee of the Faculty determines the conditions on which athletic associations of the students may compete with like associations elsewhere. It must also approve of the method of raising funds.

THE LIBRARY.

The library of the College contains 35,749 volumes, and 2,240 pamphlets. These are distributed in classes as follows:

Theology	925	English Literature.....	3,624
Philosophy	1,568	German "	955
Law	508	French "	982
Mathematics	580	Spanish "	289
Physics	2,480	Italian "	90

Bibliography	285	Unclassified	1,920
Works of Reference.....	862
Periodicals	4,727	Total	37,989

Books may be taken from the library by the students as well as by the instructors; by the Alumni upon a deposit of $10; and by the teachers of the public schools of the city.

Purchases of books are made with the income of the Seth M. Grosvenor Fund of $30,000 and the Ephraim Holbrook Fund of $5,000. Many volumes have been presented by authors, publishers and others, and the Board of Trustees annually appropriates funds for library purposes.

MEDALS AND PRIZES.

THE PELL MEDALS.

In 1849, Duncan C. Pell, by a gift of $500, established a gold medal, to be awarded annually to the student who shall rank highest in all the studies of the year taken together; and in 1856 the donor authorized the trustees of the fund to devote a portion of the income to the provision of a silver medal to be given to the student who shall rank second.

Trustees: The Chairman of the Board of Trustees, the President of the College. (One vacancy.)

THE CROMWELL MEDALS.

In 1850, Charles T. Cromwell, by a gift of $600, established a gold medal, to be awarded annually to the best scholar in History and Belles-Lettres, and in 1856 the donor authorized the provision of a silver medal for the second scholar.

Trustees: The President of the College, the Professor of History, Hon. Stuyvesant Fish.

THE WARD MEDALS.

In 1853, Augustus H. Ward established twenty bronze medals, to be awarded annually, each for one of the studies appointed, to the student of most proficiency therein, provided he shall have regularly pursued such study for not less than two months of the Collegiate year then closing; a student gaining one medal not to be precluded from obtaining others at the same time or subsequently.

The subjects are: Chemistry, Natural History, Natural Philosophy, Moral Philosophy, Political Science, English, Greek, Latin, French, Spanish, German, Oratory, Composition, Logic, Astronomy, History, Drawing, Algebra and Geometry, Descriptive Geometry, Botany.

Trustees: The Board of Trustees of the College.

THE RIGGS MEDALS.

In 1864, Elisha Riggs, by a gift of $1,000, established a gold medal, to be annually awarded to the author of the best English Prose Composition in the Senior class, and a gold medal to be awarded to the author of the best English Prose Composition in the Junior class; any surplus of income to be applied by the trustees to further, in any way they may think best, the design of the donor to stimulate the cultivation of English Composition in the College of the City of New York. The competition is open to all who have received not less than four-fifths of the maximum in English Composition from the beginning of the Junior year. The names of the competitors must be handed to the President on or before the second Monday in February. The essays must be handed in on the last day of recitations in May.

Trustees: The President of the College, the Professor of History, the Professor of the English Language and Literature.

THE CLAFLIN MEDALS.

In 1871, John Claflin, by a gift of $1,250, established two gold and two silver medals, to be awarded as follows:

A gold medal to the student of the Senior class who shall pass the best competitive examination in Greek; a gold medal to the student of the Junior class who shall pass the best competitive examination in Latin; a silver medal to the student of the Freshman class concerning whom the Professor of Greek shall certify that he has made the greatest proficiency in that department; and a silver medal to that student of the Freshman class who shall receive a corresponding certificate from the Professor of Latin.

Trustees: The President of the College, James P. Lowrey, Esq.

PRIZE OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES FOR DECLAMATION.

In 1852, the President of the Board of Education established a prize for excellence in public speaking. This is continued by the present Board of Trustees.

Two speakers from each of the three highest classes are chosen to contest for this prize. They are selected by competition, the teachers in the Department of Public Speaking acting as judges. No one shall be eligible who has not maintained an average of 75 per cent. in the subject. They speak selected pieces. The Trustees select a committee of gentlemen having no connection with the College to award the prize.

THE ROEMER PRIZE FOR DECLAMATION.

For thirty-eight years the late Professor Roemer provided anonymously a prize for the best declamation of poetry. In recognition of this fact and in honor of his memory and name, the Roemer Prize was established by the officers of the College and several graduates. The trustees of the fund ($300) are the Chairman of the Board of Trustees, the President of the Associate Alumni, and Russell Sturgis, Ph.D. The competitors are a Senior, a Junior and a Sophomore, selected in the same manner as the competitors for the Prize of the Board of Trustees. The declamations are delivered on the same occasion and judged by the same judges.

THE DRUMMOND PRIZE FOR DECLAMATION.

In 1901, Mr. Lewis E. Drummond, of the Class of 1888, offered a prose oratory prize, in memory of Mrs. Jane L. M. Drummond, Normal College, Class of 1890, to be awarded to the student who stands second in the competition for the Trustees' Prize in June. The award, of the value of twenty dollars, is annually provided for by the donor.

THE DRUMMOND HISTORY PRIZE.

In 1903, Mr. Drummond offered a prize, consisting of a gold medal, to be awarded to that student of the Junior class who submits the best essay on local self-government in America, or a given phase of it, treated mainly with reference to its historical development. The topic is given out by the Professor of History. A committee of three, including the Professor and two other instructors of the department, awards the prize.

THE KELLY PRIZES.

In 1868, James Kelly, by a gift of $1,000, established two prizes. One prize is given to the best debater in the Literary Societies; three contestants being chosen by the Clonian Society, and three by the Phrenocosmian. The President of the Board of Trustees selects the subject and submits it to the Faculty for approval. The debate is held in the College Chapel during the week preceding Commencement.

The other prize is given to the member of either society who shall write the best critique on some work of English literature. The subject is announced before the Christmas vacation, and the essays must be handed in on the first Monday in June.

The judges of the debate are selected by the President of the Board of Trustees; the judges of the essays are the President of the College, the Professor of History and the Professor of the English Language and Literature.

THE BELDEN PRIZES.

In 1883, William Belden, by a gift of $1,000, established prizes for excellence in Pure Mathematics. The nature of the prizes and the terms of their award are to be determined from time to time by the President of the College and the Professor of Pure Mathematics.

At present the following prizes are to be awarded annually on Commencement Day, in the Junior and Sophomore classes:

1. A gold medal to the student in each class of greatest proficiency in the studies of the department during the year. This greatest proficiency is to be determined either from the marks from recitations and on examinations, or by a special competitive examination, as may in each case seem best to the trustees of the prize.

2. A silver medal to any other student, in either class, whose aggregate marks for recitations and on examinations shall reach ninety-five per cent. of the maximum.

Trustees: The President of the College, the Professor of Pure Mathematics.

THE F. W. DEVOE & CO. PRIZES.

In 1885, F. W. Devoe & Co. offered two prizes, each to consist of a set of drawing instruments of the value of twenty-five dollars, for proficiency in the Mechanical Arts. They are to be awarded by a committee, consisting of the President of the College, the Chairman of the Board of Trustees and the Professor of Physics, to the student of greatest merit, in the first and second years, respectively, of the Work-shop Course. Students of the Classical and Scientific Courses may compete. The merits of the competitors are to be judged by the excellence and quickness of their work, and by the improvement made by them during the year.

THE KETCHUM PRIZES.

In May, 1891, Colonel Alexander P. Ketchum, of the Class of 1858, offered four prizes, to be awarded to those students of the Senior and Junior classes giving the best written evidence of proficiency in Philosophy and Political Economy at the June examinations in those subjects. The prizes are provided for annually by the donor, and the award is made by the Professor of Moral and Intellectual Philosophy.

THE BENNETT PRIZE IN POLITICAL SCIENCE.

James Gordon Bennett, on May 11, 1893, gave $1,000 to the Trustees of the College for the endowment of an annual prize under the following terms:

"The amount to be invested and kept invested, and the income thereof, or a medal of equal value, to be given annually upon Commencement Day to the undergraduate member of the Senior class who shall have taken the prescribed course of the institution in Political Science and English Literature, and who shall have prepared the best essay in English prose upon some subject of American governmental domestic or foreign policy of contemporaneous interest."

"The subjects to be selected and announced, the rules of competition formulated and the decision rendered by the Faculty of the College."

THE SERENA MASON CARNES PRIZE.

The Board of Trustees of the College of the City of New York accepted a prize of one hundred dollars, to be known as the SERENA MASON CARNES PRIZE, given by Mr. Mason

Carnes, of the Class of 1888, for the best translation, by students of the College above the Freshman class, of one or more scenes chosen by the Professors of the French and German Languages and Literatures and the Instructor in Spanish.

THE RALPH WEINBERG MEMORIAL PRIZE.

In 1898, Miriam Richter, by a gift of $500, established an annual prize to be awarded to that student of the Senior class who shall present for delivery upon the Chapel stage the best composition upon a topic approved by the Professor of the English Language and Literature. This prize is to be known as the Ralph Weinberg Memorial Prize.

Trustees: The President of the College, The Professor of History and the Professor of the English Language and Literature.

THE PRAGER MEMORIAL PRIZE.

In 1903 Mr. William Prager established a prize in memory of his son, David Prager, of the Class of 1903, to be awarded to a member of the Senior Class. The terms of the award are determined by the Faculty and Board of Trustees.

PRIZES OF PATRIOTIC SOCIETIES.

The Society of the "Sons of the Revolution in the State of New York" and the National Society of the "Sons of the American Revolution" offer prizes to members of the Junior and Senior classes for the best essay on some topic connected with the Revolutionary period. The three prizes of the former Society—gold, silver and bronze medals—are awarded in a competition with students of other colleges in the State.

DEGREES.

The degree of Bachelor of Arts is conferred on those students who have completed Courses I., II. and III.; that of Bachelor of Sciences on those who have completed Courses IV. and V.

STUDENTS' AID FUND.

In 1857, the Associate Alumni established a fund for the purpose of assisting such students as might otherwise find difficulty in completing their Collegiate course. This fund is maintained by contributions from the alumni. The management of the fund is committed to five trustees, who loan, without interest, such sums as they think proper to deserving students; and neither the names of those to whom the loans are made, nor the amounts of the loans, are known to any but the trustees and the auditors of the fund.

The following are the present trustees, to whom application may be made:

ALFRED G. COMPTON, '53.....	At the College.
FERDINAND SHACK, '74.....	56 Wall Street.
EVERETT P. WHEELER, '56.....	21 State Street.
JOHN R. SIM, '68.....	At the College.
JOHN HARDY, '53.....	265 Broadway.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

Three Literary Societies, the Clonian, the Phrenocosmian and the City College Debating Society, are open to the students. They are devoted to the cultivation of the arts of composition, oratory and debate, and the promotion of friendly intercourse between students.

Weekly meetings are held during the Collegiate year. The exercises consist of the reading of an essay and a selection, the delivery of a declamation or an oration, and the debate of a question previously announced. At intervals a magazine is read, to which the members contribute, anonymously, articles of a lighter nature than the essays. The Clonian library, containing many valuable books, and the Phrenocosmian reading room, where may be found the leading magazines and periodicals of the day, are in two of the side rooms of the Chapel, and are open to the members every afternoon of the College week. The third Society, or Society of the College of the City of New York, was organized in 1903.

COMMENCEMENT HONORS.

The Commencement of the College is held on the fortieth Thursday after the opening of the first term. The precedence of the Honor-men is determined as follows:

1. The orators at Commencement shall be the first six members of the graduating class in rank, counting from the beginning of the Freshman year to the close of the Senior year.
2. The Valedictory oration shall be the first honor, and the Salutatory shall be the secon'l; the remaining honorary orations shall be numbered according to the rank of the students.
3. If any of these Honor-men, except the Valedictorian and the Salutatorian, have not received 85 per cent. in Oratory (composition and delivery) during the Senior year, his name shall be entered on the programme and marked excused.
4. Each Honor-man, not otherwise disqualified, shall deliver an original oration on Commencement, provided that in the opinion of the President and the Professor of the English Language and Literature the merits of the composition warrant public presentation; otherwise he shall not speak at Commencement, but shall be marked excused on the programme.
5. No oration shall be delivered at Commencement unless the rehearsal of it shall have been satisfactory.
6. In case any Honor-man is debarred from speaking by rule 3 or 4, his place shall be taken by some other student of the graduating class, selected by the Faculty, for excellence in oratory, from a list of three recommended by the Instructor in Elocution; but no student shall be so chosen unless he shall have attained 75 per cent. of the maximum of marks for the College course. The orations of such substitutes shall be designated on the programme as dissertations.
